Brave Men of Navy Honored At Solemn Church Rites Here

By WILLIAM G. KEY.

The Navy yesterday honored its dead as Atlanta began the observance of Navy Day in tribute to the men of the fleet.

The colors, for which "the best we have and the best we are not too much to give," were blessed by Dr. Theodore S. Will, rector of All Saints' Episcopal church, in a traditional ceremony attended by officers and men of the Navy stationed in Atlanta and by the Corps of Midshipmen of the Tech Naval ROTC.

Swelling in the somber beauty of the church were the age-old hymns and prayers of the Navy "those in peril on the sea." First came the Midshipmen, the demands of their officers ringing against the brownstone facade of the church.

Then, within the church, the procession swelled: Onward Christian Soldiers . . . There was the Psalm:

They that go down to the sea in ships . . .

And the Lesson from Genesis, the first sermon of naval preparedness that took Noah safely through the waters, read by Lieutenant Commander George C. Griffin. Captain J. V. Babcock read the Second Lesson:

... And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea . . .

In his sermon, Dr. Will spoke of the ships coursing the waters to take men and civilization to the far ends of the earth, of the people who dared the seas to seek worlds beyond their worlds.

He spoke of the Apostles, who were mainly sailor folk, fishermen of the Sea of Galilee; of the Christian knights who set forth from Marseilles, Genoa, Venice and Constantinople to wrest the Holy Land from infidel hands; of the divine intercession that saved England and the Church of England.

A continuation of Atlanta's mild, fall weather for today was predicted by the Weather Bureau last night. The official forecast was "continued mild Monday." Yesterday's high was only 66 degrees. The low was 57 degrees.

Allies Blast 12 Fascist Ships, Attack Italy

By RICE YAHNER.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—RAF bombers took the long aerial highway across the Alps to northern Italy again last night for a heavy assault on Milan, and the Admiralty reported the sinking or damaging of 12 more Fascist ships in a double-barreled air-sea offensive against factories and communications feeding supplies to Axis armies under Allied attack in north Africa.

Buildings in Milan "went flying" as two-ton block-busting bombs crashed into Italy's second city, British pilots reported. One pilot said one two-ton bomb "simply blew a factory to pieces. You think the factory is there—and then it isn't."

Huge Formations.
The Swiss radio claimed that formations numbering 150 giant planes were seen over Unoccupied France yesterday.

The raid on Milan, home of Mussolini's Caproni Bomber Works, followed within a few hours a big-scale attack by British Lancasters which subjected that industrial center to the first daylight bombing of the war for northern Italy. Genoa and Turin were raided Friday night for the second night in succession, and Savona, 25 miles west of Genoa, was the target of other Friday night raiders.

The Italian radio revealed that the raid on Genoa disrupted the city's transport system. It reported the Italian communications minister returned to Rome today after inspecting the damage and directing repairs to restore railway lines and other transport services. On its side of the ledger, the Admiralty announced that British submarines operating in the Mediterranean had sunk five Italian supply ships, probably sent a destroyer and armed merchant cruiser to the bottom and damaged five other Fascist supply ships.

These successes brought to 24 the number of Italian ships sunk or damaged by submarines in attacks on convoys trying to get supplies to Nazi Marshal Rommel's forces in north Africa.

The Italians acknowledged that heavy damage was inflicted by British bombers at Milan and the outlying centers of Monza and Novaro, reporting that 48 persons were killed and 254 injured at Milan alone.

Italian Casualties.
Rome announced further that 35 were killed and 67 injured in the earlier raid on Savona and that the number of casualties in the first raid on Genoa had risen to 39 dead and 190 injured.

Obviously the numbers of four-motored Lancasters, Stirlings and Halifaxes engaged in the long-range aerial offensive against Italy were high, but only eight raiders have failed to return from their four 1,400-mile round-trip missions. While the bomber command was sending its biggest bomb-carriers against Italy's industrial centers, RAF fighters and bombers were hitting at trains and military establishments in France and the Netherlands and shipping along Axis shores. No great opposition from ground defenses or the enemy air forces was reported during any of these raids.

The fighter command reported that its "intruders sweeping into France as deep as 150 miles shot up a dozen trains, hangars, factories and railway stations."

During the night air alarms sounded in Switzerland and Swiss anti-aircraft batteries were reported to have fired at planes sweeping over in the darkness.

A Reuter's dispatch from Bern said the Swiss instructed their minister in London to protest "the grave violations of Swiss territory by the Royal Air Force during the night of October 24-25."

The Germans, striking back at Britain, sent raiders against the southeast and southwest coasts today. In one southeast coast town four Nazi planes came in at 100 feet with machineguns blazing. A former hotel was hit there by a bomb, causing extensive damage.

Entire Escort of 20 Planes Lost by Jap Bombing Squadron

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Full-scale fighting has started on Guadalcanal Island with American soldiers and Marines beating back five heavy Japanese onslaughts, the Navy reported tonight, but the foe has landed fresh reinforcements.

The Japanese opened their big push Friday night, laying down a heavy artillery barrage and then throwing tanks and troops against the Americans' western defense lines. The lines held firm throughout the four attacks that night, however, repulsing the Japanese troops and destroying five of their tanks.

The enemy attacked again Saturday and again was repulsed. The United States forces had the support of artillery themselves in countering the blows, but the Navy communique reporting the action mentioned no American tanks. Aircraft also fought the foe during this daylight attack and one American plane was lost.

"Warm" Welcome.

Before sending their ground forces into action Friday the Japanese struck at Henderson Airfield but with devastating results to themselves. They sent over 16 bombers escorted by 20 "Zero" fighters. The Marines' Grumman "Wildcats" wiped out the entire 20 fighters, shot down one bomber and damaged three others.

The Japanese reinforcements were landed from transports on the northwestern end of Guadalcanal Sunday morning. Solomon islands time (Saturday in the United States), the first new landings reported in more than a week. How heavy these reinforcements were was not told, the communique saying that "no amplifying report on these operations has been received."

Meanwhile American aviation struck at shipping throughout the Solomons area striving to thwart any further landings and to disrupt enemy supply lines. The airmen chalked up two Japanese cruisers and one destroyer damaged, another cruiser probably damaged and one heavy cruiser or battleship possibly damaged.

The heavy cruiser, the destroyer and a light cruiser were attacked by long-range aircraft Thursday night in Shortland island waters about 260 miles northwest of Guadalcanal without the loss of a plane.

Jap Ships Blasted.

A group of several Japanese cruisers and destroyers, probably a scouting force, was encountered Saturday night some 300 miles northeast of Guadalcanal by aircraft which probably damaged a cruiser with a torpedo.

On Sunday (Solomons time) Douglas "Dauntless" dive bombers from the Guadalcanal field made three attacks on a force of cruisers and destroyers just north of Florida island, which lies 13 miles north of Guadalcanal. The Navy said that "one enemy cruiser was damaged by bombs and the force withdrew."

The communique was silent as

U. S., RAF Planes Rule Sky As Allies Break Axis Line

British Fan Out Behind Enemy Desert Forces

By STEPHEN BARBER.

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Carried along by the first rush of their offensive to crush Marshal Rommel's African force, the Allies in Britain's Eighth Army have driven through gaps in his main El Alamein defense belt and have fanned out to the rear of Axis "soft-shelled" infantry and artillery, dispatches from the front said tonight.

With the support of an American and Allied air force that was supreme in the skies, and massed artillery which awoke the desert with the most thunderous barrage of any African campaign, British, Australians, Indians, New Zealanders, South Africans and shouting Greeks smashed through advance enemy lines at one point in their first lunge before dawn Saturday and rolled over his main artillery, minefield and barbed wire defense positions at other points.

The Allied forces then took up positions behind these unarmored forces, front line dispatches said, and presumably the purpose was to cut them up piecemeal.

But the main clash in the hard, bloody struggle was yet to come—the meeting of the armored forces—for Rommel's tanks were belatedly streaming toward the front.

The official communique today was reticent concerning details therefore, and told only of the initial penetrations along the 35-mile front between the sea and

American Bombers In Raid on Hongkong

CHUNGKING, Monday, Oct. 26.—(AP)—United States bombers blasted Japanese-occupied Hongkong Sunday, unloading tons of explosives on the great Kowloon dock area, it was disclosed today.

This was the first Allied raid on the British Crown Colony since the Japanese occupied it last Christmas day.

The United States planes shot down 10 enemy fighters and probably destroyed five others, while one American bomber failed to return to its base. One U. S. fighter was reported to have made a forced landing in Chinese territory.

Germans Lose 3,000 To Win Two Streets

By HENRY C. CASSIDY.

MOSCOW, Monday, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Taking advantage of improved weather, the Germans renewed their large-scale assaults on the factory area of northern Stalingrad yesterday and succeeded in occupying two streets after losing about 3,000 men, the Soviet mid-night communique said today.

This announcement came a short time after Moscow radio had reported that Russian troops had overcome stubborn enemy resistance northwest of Stalingrad and advanced into positions on the German left flank.

Describing the great battle inside Stalingrad, the communique said "Soviet troops repelled repeated tank and infantry attacks."

"The heroic defenders of Stalingrad are stubbornly defending every street and every building," it continued. At the cost of enormous losses the Germans succeeded in occupying two streets in a factory settlement.

One Soviet unit alone repulsed five attacks, destroying four tanks and wiping out 2,600 Germans, the communique said. Another unit burned out three tanks and killed about 400 men.

The communique said the Red army held the initiative on some sectors northwest of the city. One unit occupied a German-held village after overcoming fierce resistance and other units occupied an enemy occupational base.

Nearly 1,000 Rumanians and Germans were said to have been killed in these two attacks.

The communique reported a lull in the fighting around Mzok, in the Caucasus, where the Germans

YMCA Branch Is Admitted to Fund's Budget

As more than 4,000 volunteer workers prepared to start today, the intensive period of the Community Fund Appeal for human wartime needs in Atlanta, added incentive to complete success was given by the formal announcement of the Fund Board of Trustees that a new agency will participate in the Fund in 1943.

The central branch of the YMCA, Atlanta's oldest social agency, has been admitted to membership in the Fund and budgeted for $16,354 of the $635,099 total minimum goal.

This is only a fraction of the total budget of the agency, but will permit it to carry on badly needed additional services.

This announcement came as the workers in the downtown, office building and suburban divisions of the Fund Appeal prepared to meet at 6:15 o'clock tonight at the Atlanta Athletic Club to launch the final stages of the solicitation.

Dr. Pierce Harris, pastor of the First Methodist church and leader of the downtown division, will preside.

The YMCA was organized in 1858, but was discontinued during the Civil War to be reopened in 1873. It has been operated continuously since.

The first full-time secretary, G. S. Hanleiter, who saw Sherman's men burn houses near his own home, is still living in retirement at Rutledge in his 86th year.

The Atlanta YMCA, like other Y's over the world, serves mostly young men and boys, and in so doing has followed them to war.

At the Atlanta YMCA, the slo-

Russians Thwart Ladoga Area Raid

MOSCOW, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Sixteen enemy motorboats and pontoon boats were destroyed and 15 planes shot down in a furious seven-hour air, land and sea fight in the midst of rain squalls and snow flurries when a landing attempt was made three days ago on a small Soviet island in Lake Ladoga, northwest of Leningrad, Russian dispatches reported today.

(The German communiqué said "German and Italian men-of-war, escorted by German and Finnish air formations, landed a detachment on a sector of the coast, destroyed a lighthouse, took prisoners and successfully returned to their bases after repulsing Soviet gunboat and air attacks.") gan is "Your uniform is your membership." During the past weekend, 259 service men found sleeping accommodations at the Y at 145 Luckie street, after a Saturday night party in the big gymnasium.

In the field of boys' work, the YMCA does effective work. With delinquency increasing in larger cities since our entrance into the war, the agency is planning a constructive program to reach younger Atlanta boys. No longer is the program centered in the Y building, but reaches out into the various community centers with programs that provide recreation and build citizenship.

Milo W. Henke, an experienced worker, is boys' work secretary in charge of this activity, and he is assisted by 10 part-time students at Emory University. The YMCA program is geared to wartime living. Older boys and younger men, looking forward to enlistment or the draft are given conditioning exercises under the leadership of Physical Director Colquitt Clark.

Last year the YMCA had a total attendance in all activities of 192,240, ranging from gym classes to Bible study groups. More than 15,000 service men have been helped during the past few months.

1,400 Serbs Slain In Croatian State

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—More than 1,400 Serbs, including women and children, were shot to death in a new wave of terror in the Axis-created Croat state, the exiled Yugoslav government reported today.

The executions, which Yugoslav sources said were aimed at "exterminating the Serbs," occurred in the province of Srem at the hands of Ustashi—the brown-uniformed Fascist police of the Italian puppet dictator, Ante Pavelic—and the Germans.

A report by Tass, Russian news agency from Geneva, said 22 students have been sentenced to death at Sofia, Bulgaria, on charges of "subversive activities." Six others were given life imprisonment and eight others received lesser terms. The Berlin radio said five Yugoslav natives serving with the Italian military forces have been executed as spies and a like number sentenced to long terms at a hard labor.

Lost Baby Found—At Police Station

There was a surprising but pleasant reunion at police headquarters yesterday for Mrs. W. H. O'Kelly, 18, and her two-year-old son, Billy.

Mrs. O'Kelly came to ask police aid in locating her infant son. The young mother told police she left the baby in care of a maid Saturday while she went to a movie. He was gone when she returned. Police remembered a two-year-old youngster brought in Saturday by a Negro woman, who said the child and five cents for his care had been left at her home. They showed the baby to Mrs. O'Kelly. Sure enough it was Billy.

U. S. Fortresses Sink Jap Gunboat

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Monday, Oct. 26.—(AP)—American Flying Fortresses sank a Japanese gunboat and heavily damaged three merchant ships Sunday, the Allied command announced today.

The Allied bombers and attack planes bombed and strafed Kogong, at the southwestern tip of Dutch Timor, Kavieng and the Kokoda track on the island of New Guinea.

The communiqué disclosed that Japanese planes bombed Darwin, northern Australian port.

Fighting continues in the Owen Stanley mountains, the communiqué said.

Three Seized On $2,000,000 Bunco Charge

Trio Wanted by U. S., Canada and Australia Held in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Police announced today the arrest of three men wanted by the United States, Canada and Australia on confidence game charges involving more than $2,000,000.

Police Chief Miguel Z. Martinez said the men, picked up on request of the United States Treasury Department, gave their names as John Woolcutt Forbes, Alfred E. Dawson and Irving Garfunkel. He said FBI men came here from the United States early in August, but were then unable to locate the men. They were arrested yesterday in a hotel.

Chief Martinez said Washington officials had informed him Forbes, who passed as a member of the British secret service, was wanted in Australia for a $1,500,000 fraud, in Canada for a $500,000 one.

He said the request for the arrest of Dawson noted that Dawson was wanted for cashing United States checks, but that he received no information on Garfunkel.

the ruins of the city if necessary, prepared warm quarters in caves, cellars and dugouts during the lull between battles which saw the Germans driven further back both to the south and to the northwest of the city.

Russian Penetration. The Russians said enemy positions were penetrated to the south of the city by Soviet detachments which killed 120 Hitlerites and captured guns in a night attack.

To the northwest the Germans attacked desperately to regain lost positions and when their assault had spent its force the Russians counterattacked down the slopes of a height driving the enemy still further back. Four hundred Germans were killed and five of their tanks destroyed, the communiqué said.

(The German high command claimed that all remaining parts of the Red October Works in North Stalingrad had been captured and the northern suburb of Spartakovka taken. Ground captured the previous day has now been cleared of the enemy, the Berlin communiqué added.)

It said additional heights had been taken by storm in the western Caucasus southeast of Novorossisk.)

Change of Weather. The abrupt change of weather which brought warm, clear days and dry ground permitted the Germans to send planes in groups of 50 into the attack against the factory in the north of the city.

Special squads of automatic gunners operating with their own tanks drove through in small groups to the factory wall, the Russians said, but they were ejected from their positions after paying a bloody price for their short-lived gains.

In another sector of the city, Red Star reported, a German infantry regiment attacked with planes and tanks which rushed into the streets in groups of 10 to 15 into the attack last night. The Russians fought off the assault, shooting down 15 planes and wiping out 150 of the enemy who were able to gain only a temporary wedge.

The gravity of the battle was reflected in a dispatch to Ivestia which told of terror and horror during the two-month siege in which most of Stalingrad has been consumed by flames whipped by the Volga wind and often visible for 30 miles.

Shallow Defenses. "The depth of defense is not great," the government newspaper's correspondent, Eugene Krieger, "in some places from the front line to the waters of the Volga the distance is 600 to 800 meters. Hundreds of tanks, hundreds of Junkers tried for two months to pierce this narrow strip of land which had no forts, no fortifications like Verdun."

He described the front line as running through houses, yards, factories and across railway tracks, with the Red Army fighting from cellars, staircases, roofs, gardens, hilltops and holding defenses among ruins where homeless civilians sought shelter.

A manhole cover opened in a deserted street disclosed a young girl living underneath with her mother, he said, while other residents were existing in caves, ditches and ravines and refusing to leave the city.

Women, children and old men help build barricades, Krieger said, stopping only to pour water over themselves when the heat from devouring flames becomes unbearable and then returning to their toil.

Afraid of Nothing. "Citizens say they are afraid of nothing since the German bombing of August 23 when three-fourths of Stalingrad was leveled."

Factory workers joined in the defense, picking up and repairing damaged Red Army equipment or entering the battle themselves, he said. "The detachment of 900 workers was formed in three days and it was reported holding its position successfully."

The workers of one factory made 200 new guns and then dragged them to the front line and manned them themselves, the correspondent added. The leader of these workers, named Gonor, once

WRIGHT AIRPLANE PLANT Is Damaged by Blaze
CINCINNATI, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A basement portion of the new Wright Aeronautical Corporation suburban Lockland plant was damaged severely today by fire of unknown origin.

Production at the plant was not imperiled, but large quantities of cafeteria equipment stored in a room approximately 10,000 square feet were destroyed.

William F. Findlay, general manager, said the fire was discovered at 4:50 a. m. and despite the difficulties of location was brought under control in two hours through the combined efforts of Lockland, Cincinnati and Wright's own fire departments.

Heaps of Scrap Show Success Of State Drive

Nelson Appeals to Nation To Dig Even Deeper for Winter Supply.

An appeal to industrial concerns to "dig deeper and even deeper" for scrap materials came from Washington yesterday as the total poundage of war-bound scrap in Georgia raised through the newspaper campaign skyrocketed into staggering millions.

"Nothing is more important to war production than scrap," said Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board. "The amount of scrap we get depends in a large measure on industrial scrap. It is essential to the successful solving of the winter supply problem."

Every industrial plant must undergo a thorough, old-fashioned house cleaning," Nelson declared. He asserted all equipment that cannot be repaired and put to use for the war effort "belongs on the nation's scrap pile."

Praises Newspapers.
The WPB official estimated that industrial firms must provide at least 12,000,000 tons of scrap during the last half of '42.

Praising the newspapers for their work in the campaign that closed Saturday, Nelson said the drive showed "the kind of co-operation newspapers can give, and we are grateful for their magnificent job."

Here in Atlanta, the salvage drive netted between 8,000,000 and 12,000,000 pounds of vital waste metal. Scrap already weighed—some officially and some by estimates—totaled 4,609,000 pounds. That does not include metal collected by the Fulton and DeKalb county schools.

Much of the heavy scrap has not been brought to collection points; no reports have been had from industrial plants or rural sections.

At Ellaville trucks being used to move the 1942 peanut crop took time out to help gather scrap. Ellaville had collected 10,000 pounds of discarded metal by the first of last week.

Mountainous Pile.

At Vienna the city and county school children are working enthusiastically on building still higher a mountainous pile of junk in the city park. George D. Busbee is captain of the Vienna school drive and T. M. Fitzpatrick is county salvage chairman.

More than 500,000 pounds of scrap metal collected at Vidalia and Camp Stewart are on the way to smelting centers. Ten trucks moved the scrap, which was sorted into piles of tin and piles of iron and steel.

Other materials gathered in the newspaper campaign will be started to processing centers this week.

School boys and girls at Washington, Ga., dug up more than a half million pounds of scrap last week. Thirty-five trucks, manned by businessmen and schoolboys, picked up the scrap Wednesday afternoon.

This was the third salvage drive in Wilkes county since Pearl Harbor. The first two campaigns netted around 2,000,000 pounds of scrap.

Every other city, hamlet and town in the state and the rural communities still are collecting and weighing the items they dug up for the newspaper drive. No official estimate on the total poundage can be had for at least 10 days or two weeks.

Mrs. V. M. Harbin Succumbs at 53

Mrs. V. M. (Jennie) Harbin, 53, died yesterday at the residence on First avenue, Carey Park.

She is survived by her husband; one daughter, Mrs. H. M. Berry; one son, I. V. Harbin; mother, Mrs. J. W. Goswick; four sisters, Mrs. L. Parks, Mrs. W. W. Vanderviere, Mrs. Will Crawford and Mrs. Hoyt Beck, all of Atlanta; five brothers, W. W. Dewey, Homer and Fred Goswick, of Atlanta, and Grady Goswick, of Miami, Fla.; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 12 o'clock tomorrow, noon, at Old Bethel Baptist church in Dawson county. The Rev. L. H. Hanle and the Rev. R. A. Bryan will officiate and burial will be in the churchyard under direction of Harry G. Poole.

Harry L. Gibson Succumbs Here

Harry L. Gibson, of 20 Bates avenue, N. E., died Saturday night at a private hospital.

He is survived by his wife; four sons, Hugh, Ray, Billy and Harry L. Gibson Jr.; mother, Mrs. Gertrude G. Gibson; three sisters, Mrs. James McMullen, Mrs. Homer L. Thomas and Mrs. W. W. Jones, all of Atlanta; and two brothers, Robert Gibson, of Atlanta, and L. P. Gibson, of Jasper, Ala.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Brandon-Bond-Cond.

Censorship Absurdity

Anger of the British press over the latest example of governmental stupidity in the handling of wartime censorship, is perfectly understandable and quite justified.

Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, of South Africa, spoke before the British parliament. British afternoon papers were forbidden, by the press censor, to publish the speech. The speech, however, was broadcast over radio, even as it was delivered, to the United States and South Africa.

It was evident there is a complete lack of co-ordination between the offices of press censorship and of radio censorship. For the situation over the Smuts speech is absurd on the face of it.

Even disregarding the palpable favoritism shown on behalf of radio, there was nothing whatsoever in the speech that should have been kept from the British public. That public is intelligent and understanding. It has proven its mettle in heroic manner during this war. It is an insult to its intelligence to say it shall not hear nor read such a speech as that of Marshal Smuts.

The action was not typical of Britain, though perhaps typical of a certain type of small-caliber public officials to be found in every country, at times. It is to be hoped the British press will be able to force changes in the handling of censorship which, from now on, will make impossible any repetition of this most recent absurdity.

Steel Salesmen in Scrap Drive

More than two thousand salesmen employed by steel companies, most of them technically trained and all of them thoroughly familiar with industrial operations, will be engaged in a tremendous treasure hunt for scrap iron and steel during the next few months, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute.

They will spend virtually all of their working time helping their customers, the leading steel-consuming industries of the country, search out and dispose of every possible ton and pound of scrap, particularly obsolete or long-idle machinery, tools, equipment, etc.

In this latest effort to increase the flow of scrap, each of the steel salesmen is devoting himself to the industry as a whole, in the interest of the war effort. All scrap recovered will move as usual to the various steel plants through the yards of scrap dealers.

Approximately 22,000 industrial plants, those that buy iron and steel direct from the producer, will be visited at least once by the steel companies' salesmen during the course of the drive. In addition, thousands of other manufacturers who buy their iron and steel from jobbers and warehouses, will be called upon for the same purposes by salesmen employed by the warehouses.

Poor Norway!

Norway has suffered terribly at the hands of Nazi Germany and under the rule of that arch-traitor, Quisling.

Her people have been starved. They have been herded into concentration camps. Innocent "hostages" have been shot by scores. Everything worth while in life has been stripped from the wretched Norwegians.

But what may well be the direst threat of all is now reported by way of Switzerland. It is stated that Hitler and the German Reich are about to take Norway under their "protection."

Internationally speaking, to be placed under Nazi "protection" may best be likened to "the fate worse than death" of the oldstyle melodramas. It means complete absorption into the Reich, it means calculated and deliberate Nazification of Norwegian children and youth. It means, in short, obliteration of Norway as an independent state, entirely, and it means outright slavery for her people.

Poor Norway! "Protected" by the Reich! It is like being forced inside that circus cage to be "protected" by Gargantua.

Good News

Resignation of Premier Mitchell Hepburn, of Ontario, removes an outspoken critic of the Dominion government of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King and the entire Canadian war effort. Hepburn, it will not be forgotten, is the man who caused repercussions in the United States for his speeches last February, in which he was reported as saying the United States Navy was "in hiding" and "afraid to contact" the Japanese fleet. He later said he had been "misquoted."

The word "misquoted" has served on more than one occasion as an excellent screen. But it has yet to fool anybody, especially anyone in the United States. For in this country of free speech, in this country where we know truth is the rule and not the exception, as far as reportorial efforts are concerned, the mass of the people have come to look with suspicion upon any public figure who attempts to hide behind such a flimsy shield as "misquoted." That is the refuge which was sought by Hepburn during those times when the heat was pressed on him regarding his statements about the United States.

So the resignation of this critic will come as no shock to Americans. On the contrary, it will come as something of a relief to know that he is no longer in power or in a position to do harm. The best summation of Hepburn was made by the man who, in speaking of Hepburn, said: "He opens his mouth with the best intentions and the next thing you know he is saying just what the doctor ordered—and the doctor's name is Goebbels." Need more be said?

Strategic Road

Of great strategic importance to the Americas and the war effort is the fact that the United States and the Panama Canal will soon be linked by an overland route. This new roadway will join with existing Mexican railroads to provide a co-ordinated truck and railroad transportation service. To this end arrangements have been made with Guatemala, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama to begin immediately construction work on the final links of the highway from the Mexican border to the Canal Zone.

The highway has many advantages from our standpoint. It will not only link continental United States with the Canal by an overland route free from Axis sea raiders, but it will relieve in great measure wartime economic difficulties and problems faced by the Central American countries due to disruption of their foreign trade and the present shipping shortage.

Plans call for construction of approximately 625 miles of new all-weather road. This will connect with nearly a thousand miles of surfaced road which has been built already south from Guatemala to the Canal, connecting with the east-west trans-Isthmian highway now under construction. Surveying operations are in progress and construction cost will be financed by the United States. It is a good investment.

Just Another Lie

The world is getting used to the outpourings of Arch-Ananias Goebbels. So often has the Nazi propaganda chief been caught in barefaced lies, they are no longer noticeable. Nothing he can say, now, can be accepted as truth, for he has himself proven, time and again, that his words mean nothing.

The latest example of typical Nazi propaganda-lying, was blasted this week when Lieutenant General Dwight Eisenhower, commander of United States forces in the European theater of war, declared there was not one word of truth in the German assertion that German submarines had sunk several ocean liners "heavily laden with American troops."

Every American soldier on the Atlantic at the time of the German announcement has been landed safely in the United Kingdom, said General Eisenhower. The Navy, as it did in the first World War, is protecting our transports going to Britain so effectively that none have, as yet, been lost.

The German statement was, thus, a lie out of whole cloth. No matter what Ananias Goebbels says, it means nothing anymore. For he is an all-time liar and the truth is not in him.

Georgia Editors Say:

CONFEDERATE PENSIONS.

(From The Quitman Free Press)

The other day when Governor Talmadge diverted nearly $3,000,000 from the Confederate pension fund to be used for general purposes, it was revealed that there are now only 42 surviving veterans in the state who are receiving $50 a month each. Confederate veterans' widows receiving $30 a month totaled 1,503. During the past year veterans were paid a total of $601,576, although the fund collected to take care of this obligation totaled $3,576,393. Here's something Mr. Arnall will undoubtedly look into when he goes into office. The tax on tobacco products which was designed to take care of the Confederate pension fund, ought to be either abolished or greatly reduced.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

EFFECTIVE ESPIONAGE WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The effectiveness of the Nazi espionage system is well illustrated by a heretofore unpublished incident in connection with the recent British commando raid on Dieppe.

In the midst of the fighting a British officer and his men took temporary cover in a house occupied by an elderly French woman. They gave her their drinks of water the woman called the officer aside and whispered to him: "The Germans were expecting you yesterday; they knew you were coming."

It probably explains why British and Canadian losses were so great in that commando raid, the most pretentious yet staged against Nazi-occupied territory. Casualties were more than 50 per cent of the participating force. The Germans, evidently forewarned, were prepared for it.

But the importance of the story lies in the fact that German espionage agents were able to get advance information on the raid. Somebody talked too much. Perhaps one of the several thousand soldiers taking part confided to his wife or sweetheart. Here was what must have been regarded as the biggest military secret of the day, and yet it fell into Nazi hands: "The Germans were expecting you yesterday."

SHOULD BE LESSON There ought to be some sort of lesson in that to the American people. The Russians are afraid to tell us their military secrets for that reason. Even the British have complained that some of their most confidential matters have appeared in American newspapers after being told to our high ranking officials.

If a break such as the Dieppe incident could happen to the British in the future, when counterespionage measures are more far-reaching, what may we expect here with our polyglot population and far-flung boundaries?

It should impose a double responsibility for silence in discussing military information which might be of value to the enemy. Details about bomber plants or troop movements might offer a cue to vitally important information.

SPIES PLANTED EARLY Because the Axis nations were laying careful plans for war while we were shouting peace our enemies gained the leap on us in planning their spies and agents in advance. Despite the highly successful efforts of the FBI, Chief J. Edgar Hoover undoubtedly feels that the country is still honeycombed with spies. There are so many diverse elements in our population that it is all but an impossible task to round them up.

The Germans began creating this vast espionage system long before the war broke in Europe. Agents were planted at a time when their motives were not suspected. What happened at Dieppe indicates well enough that they are still able to operate even in a place like England.

Not long ago the Chicago Tribune printed a story hinting that our naval intelligence had broken the Japanese code in explanation of the great naval-air victory we registered at Midway. Within 48 hours after that the Japs changed their code, a development that set our Navy back at least six months, according to competent naval authorities. Somehow and in some way the information contained in the news story was relayed back to Tokyo.

LIBERIA LANDING For a week before American troops recently landed in Liberia on the west coast of Africa the Nazi-controlled radio at Vichy, France, was screaming about reported American plans for moving against Dakar, just up the coast from where our soldiers established a foothold.

We now know that the information on which the Vichy radio was acting came from German sources which had preceded our troops in Liberia. The Japs were already there when our government representatives first appeared on the scene some months earlier to make the negotiations. They are in South and Central America. They are in the United States and Canada. As fast as we can catch them we blot them out, but this does not prevent the damage being done by those we fail to catch.

The Dieppe incident offers a perfect story illustration for some of the "SILENCE" posters you see stuck around in street cars and store windows. Whoever was responsible for that leak probably cost the British a thousand or more casualties. It could cost us a lot more.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

A Prayer

Of Thanks.

Last week I uttered a very devout prayer of thanks. For the United States senate had displayed the good sense to sidetrack that proposed amendment to the new selective service bill which would have plunged this country into all the horrors of racketeering, bootlegging and crime which follows at the heels of prohibition.

Senator Josh Lee, of Oklahoma, was the misguided soul who sponsored the amendment, which would have made the Army responsible for enforcing prohibition in all areas where Army camps or establishments are located. Which means just about the entire country. Including such cities as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, etc. And, believe me, the Army has other and vitally important duties to perform, far more important than trying to enforce a repetition of that unregretted "noble experiment."

I am, truly, grateful to the senate which refused to tack such a fantastic amendment on the bill to draft 18 and 19-year-olds.

Look at Oklahoma.

If there be any with such short memory or faulty information that they don't know how conditions were in Oklahoma before the pitiful days of the attempt to enforce national prohibition, all they have to do today to see the same conditions is to glance at Oklahoma, home state of that same Josh Lee.

Oklahoma has statewide prohibition—on the books. It has, too, all the vicious conditions prohibition brings in its wake. Oklahoma prohibition is such a failure that it is inconceivable even Senator Lee himself would sincerely contend it protects either soldiers or the public.

Stories of bootlegging, racketeering and criminal violence are found in the columns of almost all Oklahoma newspapers. In towns like Stillwater, Weatherford, Shawnee, Muskogee, Guthrie, Tulsa, Ada, Seminole and many others.

Since December 8, the day after Pearl Harbor, arrests for drunken driving in Oklahoma, a prohibition state, have totaled 927, compared with 596 for the eight preceding months.

Intended to aid the federal government in securing liquor for use in war industry, Governor Phillips of Oklahoma offered to give that government all the liquor confiscated by state officers in Oklahoma. He stated that they had destroyed 125,000 cases of seized liquor in 1941. In a prohibition state, mind you, Governor Phillips' opponent in the gubernatorial race urged Oklahomaans to vote for repeal of the state prohibition law in order to

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Pure Racket NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The method by which the boss of the Teamsters' Union in Boston and other politicians of the New Deal party's union front propose to raise upward of $50,000 to pay the private debts of James M. Curley, their congressional nominee, is the racket in its pure, original form.

The racket originated on the Bowery. It consisted of a clam-bake, moonlight boat ride, chowder party or dance arranged in the guise of benefit for a popular precinct leader or gangster who often was both. The faithful followers of the person thus to be honored would print window cards and tickets and go to work on the neighborhood merchants and everyone else who seemed eligible. A man might think that if he showed a sales resistance too strong for ordinary solicitation and intimidation he ran the risk of a brick through his window or confusions and abrasions, or worse, on his person. He does imagination make cowards of many of us. He was expected to buy tickets in proportion to the estimate of his means arrived at by the members of the ticket committee, and, after a few misadventures, which he took to be object lessons, he usually did.

In those days, to say that the boys were running a racket was plainly understood to mean that they were promoting a party of one kind or another to raise some money for some dominant hoodlum, who usually was a Tammany hoodlum, or for a group of them. On the face of things, as on the face of the festivities which are now planning for the purpose of paying off the personal obligations of a man who has been named for Boston and governor of Massachusetts, there was the serene smile of innocence. The racket was legal and harmless and, in its pure, original form, as adopted for the benefit of Mr. Curley, remains so to this day.

The Old Formula Brother John M. Sullivan, the boss of the Boston teamsters, who sprung the idea of running not only one racket but a whole series of rackets for Mr. Curley, by means of "athletic carnivals and similar benefit performances," has not departed from the old Bowery formula. For all that is known to the contrary, all members of his and other unions and all business men who could suffer from the ill will of Brother Sullivan's own union, are free to buy only as many tickets as they may want or none at all. Any fear operating on the individual workers and the business firms will be the product of their imagination. Later unfortunate experiences, if any, occurring to nonsubscribers could not be tied to their refusal in the relation of effect to cause.

The fact that many other union bosses have run rackets for themselves and their friends and employers felt obliged to buy tickets in fear of unpleasant consequences for refusal may occur to the prospective clients of the Curley rackets, but that would be no fault of Brother Sullivan or Mr. Curley. In other cases, in particular, a racket given for a union boss in White Plains, N. Y., a few years ago, both workers and the employers, who were contractors on the aqueduct project, felt a compulsion to buy according to a certain rating. The workers bought two tickets each and the employers bought whole decks of them and the workers, who were horny-handed, hard-rock men from deep underground, rioted when they got a meal worth about one-tenth of the price of their tickets and not enough stimulants to get them into the air.

Their Only Shield Of course, Brother Sullivan is in a position to inflict great hardship on the opportunity to help bail Mr. Curley out of debt and many businessmen might suffer from his disfavor if he were that sort of union boss. But the mere fact that some union bosses are that sort cannot be assumed to mean that he is. It can be hoped, at least, that he is not, although his conscience, rather than any restraining laws, is their only shield.

It is announced that Senator David I. Walsh and Representative John W. McCormack, the leader of the New Deal majority in the house of representatives, are on the honorary committee of a gigantic testimonial dinner for Mr. Curley. Thus the New Deal party, itself, if the use of their names in this respect be authorized, becomes a party to the racket consisting of a series of rackets which it is undertaken to pay the private debts of a public man for legislative favors anticipated.

Inasmuch as the gift of more than $50,000 is described as a gift it will not be taxable as income, although it will be a windfall and income for all practical financial purposes of Mr. Curley. So, while lesser people are paying deeply for the war, Mr. Curley's gifts from the workers will be exempt, unless it could be held by the internal revenue that the money is payment in advance for services yet to be given.

The thought may not have occurred to the workers of Boston that after they have raised the $50,000-plus for Mr. Curley there will be no way to obligate him to use it to pay his debts. He will be free to let the debts ride along and stick their charity in the bank.

Saw you those lovers' upturned brows? Heard you the sweet low-spoken vows? As each to each their troth they plight? O August Moon! You soon shall wane. Even now you cannot trace your form. Those lovers' vows shall still remain. While they keep faith in calm and storm.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

"EL CAPITAN" This piece is being written on Saturday afternoon, late, because I don't think I can get by the office on Sunday to do a piece for Monday.

So, if they find Eddie Rickenbacker between now and Monday morning, I will be cheering as loud as you.

He was one of my heroes—as he was a hero for all of us—back in 1917-18. He was a hero to everyone in the Army, Navy or Marines. He was a hero to me before that. I used to read about him racing at Indianapolis. He never won that race. Once he led it for 499 miles. His car went out and he pushed it in the last lap and finished in the money. It didn't count, but when a driver can push his car a mile and still finish ahead of drivers whose cylinders were still giving off energy, he was well out in front.

He drove the dirt tracks and the bricks at Indianapolis and was, I guess, the best known race driver of his time.

When the war came on he enlisted and they picked him to drive the general's car. He was behind the wheel for "Black Jack" Pershing for a while.

Then they figured that maybe the Wright brothers' invention would do something for armies and they began to use airplanes for observation.

Some of the pilots carried automatic pistols and other took along quart whisky bottles filled with chunks of metal and old nails. These they would drop overhead, hoping some would conk some enemy on the head. A few even dropped large rocks. Indeed, some queer objects went over the side. Some of them can't be told.

It wasn't long, though, before someone arranged a machinegun so that it would fire through the propeller.

That started things.

AMERICA'S ACE Eddie Rickenbacker went into airplanes and he stayed there. He flew those old crates of the day as if he were a part of them.

He was officially credited with 27 German planes. Four balloons were in the lot. He actually shot down about 35 but the "officials" are those that land where they can be counted or seen on the ground.

I have known of the man who flew with him and they said he had the most marvelous sense of timing possessed by any man flying. They told me he could take his plane and fly it up behind a German plane so close that it looked as if he were going to go right through.

Only then would he press his guns and let the German get a close-up load. While others were firing at 200 yards Eddie was firing at 10 or 20.

They had no parachutes then. They came very late in the war. That was when flying was new. Today, it is flying plus engineering and science. Fighter planes today fly 400 miles an hour and carry 12 machineguns and a cannon.

Anyhow, Eddie came back from the big show, sold on airplanes and knowing a lot about engines. He was head of an automobile company for a while, and then he got into the airplane business.

He built up Eastern Air Lines into one of the nation's great lines and he did it because he was Eddie Rickenbacker and people believed in him.

That he should get into the show today was inevitable. He had gone about this whole country, talking to new pilots, before he went off to England and then to the Pacific.

He stood up there and talked to them—52 years of age—and a fellow who had been one of the big guns of the first war and a big success in the days after it.

I have an idea they will find him yet. He is on some island or maybe still on a raft. If he is on an island he is kind of it. On the raft he would help keep the young ones going. He has the stamina to go on.

TWO YEARS AGO He had stamina two years ago. I was out all night, with others, hunting for the plane that crashed near Atlanta.

We walked in the dark and rain and fog and must have passed near it three or four times. It was dawn when we found it.

When they got Eddie out they gave him a quick examination and said he was dead. Then a doctor tried a shot of something and he came back to life.

He was lying there on a blanket. One eye was filled with blood. I didn't know whether to look at it or not.

He opened the other one in a minute, looked up, and said: "Hello, Ralph. You boys get the others out, will you?"

Later on, I was at the hospital the night they said he was dying and I was there the next day. They wanted to tell me a story.

He had suddenly roused out of a coma and asked for food. They had not been able to get him to eat.

While doctors and nurses fluttered about getting milk and custard Eddie waved it away. He wanted, he said, a ham sandwich and a bottle of beer.

This was under an oxygen tent, mind you. And three hours before he had been dying.

He got it. And he ate it. To the last crumb and the last drop. He was three months in the hospital, fretting and mean to get out.

He flew to Europe in a bomber. He flew on inspections over there and he flew, one night, over France and saw something of that. While there he cleaned out the boys at poker.

Then he flew back home again and then to Hawaii. I'm rooting for him to find him. When they do he will be king of the island. I think I know him. I've flown with him to many places.

He is one of the greatest guys I ever knew—with the most courage and the most daring. And he had, I think, more fun than most anyone else. Success didn't make him quit having fun.

Precaution Inspires Safety, But Caution Invites Defeat by a Daring Enemy

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

When high officials say, as several have, that we are losing the war, the people simply do not believe it. If they did, they would be terrified.

When an official makes that statement, it means only that the fault he is criticizing, if not corrected, will lead to our defeat.

There have been many civilian faults—chiefly the lack of smart leadership, the lack of unified command, the lack of organization, and the lack of streamlined, centralized, overall control.

But our defeats have resulted from military faults—chiefly the lack of foresight, the lack of precaution and the lack of daring.

It was lack of foresight and precaution that cost us several ships, many of our best planes and 3,000 of our best-trained men at Pearl Harbor.

But that defeat cost us even more. It excused the continuation of our defensive policy—the policy of doing nothing and waiting to see where the Japs would strike next. It placed our Navy, for the first time, on the defensive before our own people. And it prompted the timid to excuse failure by inventing alibis.

One of our admirals has admitted in print that precaution and daring could have prevented such disaster in the Philippines. The air force there included many bombers and more P-40 combat planes than the Flying Tigers used to beat the Japs in China. But, despite 24-hour notice, most of the planes were caught on the ground, nicely parked to make an easy target.

The heroic Marines on Wake could have been saved, but we made no effort to help them. The Japs dared much to take the island; we dared nothing to hold it.

When the Japs took our Aleutian Islands, the Navy said they were not worth anything, anyway. When this brought a storm of protest, the Navy told of the famous one-way fog that prevented operation by our forces but did not hinder the Japs.

It is not a proud record, but it will be forgotten soon, for Admiral Nimitz established a new policy. "Get in there and fight," he said, and he was talking to the leaders—not to the little men, for they had proved their valor.

As Major Elliott said recently, the Japs have no strategy but that of attack. They are playing for high stakes—for half of the world—and they put in all their chips. They dare everything. And only a daring that equals theirs, plus greater power, will beat them.

At first I thought—because I hadn't seen him in a year—that it meant a touch of 50 cents or whatever circumstances would permit. And then it came to me—somewhat of a shock—that he was wearing the uniform of a corporal in the Army. So the only touch was for a cigarette, which was a gesture between friends.

I'd known this chap for quite a number of years and he wasn't worth hell room. Or the powder and shot it would take to kill him, as the rural saying went. He wasn't bad, he wasn't good, he just didn't care a cuss. Whether he had a job or not. If he had a job and didn't like his boss he'd walk out. He was a free American citizen and didn't care whether school kept or not. He could sleep somewhere, because he had numerous friends who liked him. I can't say why. But a lot of no-goods have friends. I liked the son-of-a-gun myself.

But he's in the Army now. And has been for six months. In one of the camps. Due, perhaps, to be sent overseas. He doesn't know. He's no hero. He didn't volunteer, because he never could quite get around to it. There were too many other things to do. But they drafted him. And they found his heart and lungs and liver and lights and eyes and ears and legs and feet all right—and gave him the works. The military forms, I understand, do not include a question about general laziness and cussedness.

"Boy, howdy," he said. "They have sure put me through the mill. They darn (I am softening the word because of religious readers) near murdered me. They got me up before daylight and they drilled me and marched me and worked me until I wanted to lie down and die. Boy, it has been pure and unadulterated hell, if you ask me."

"Why, if it is that bad," I suggested, just for a nibble, "maybe I can exert my powerful influence and get you out of the Army and you can come back and play around and escape all that hard work, which must bear down pretty hard on you."

"You can take your influence—if any—and use it for some sissy boy," he returned. "I'm in the Army now and I'm sticking. I've got to stick, whether I like it or not. But I do like it. See them corporal's stripes? I've got so tough I can bite a mule's hind leg off. I can sleep on a harrow turned upside down. I can eat breakfast—for the first time in 15 years. I always used to drink my breakfast. And I can lick you and three more like you, all at once. Want to try it?"

In the Army Now—And Likes It; The Poor Bum!

I would gladly have accepted his challenge except there were not three others present, barring feminine reporters. And no gentleman would strike a feminine reporter except in self defense.

Autumn Leaves.

A man with exceptionally poor judgment of tact and the fitness of things was a caller at our home the other afternoon. We were sitting in the sunshine in the backyard when he remarked upon how well, sturdy, strong and durable I was looking. The darn fool!

I made haste to explain that I was suffering from rheumatism in all four limbs, feared an attack of arthritis, felt my arteries growing more nearly petrified every day, was suffering from severe backache and had been advised by three specialists to refrain from any physical exertion beyond carrying my portion of steak—when there is steak.

"What do you suppose brought on all these maladies?" asked our visitor sympathetically.

"I'll answer that," responded the mistress of the manor. "Just look around you. The autumn leaves are falling down, falling down, falling down. They are three inches deep and growing deeper. That's what's producing all these symptoms. Last year he got around to it. There were too many other things to do. But they drafted him. And they found his heart and lungs and liver and lights and eyes and ears and legs and feet all right—and gave him the works. The military forms, I understand, do not include a question about general laziness and cussedness."

"Boy, howdy," he said. "They have sure put me through the mill. They darn (I am softening the word because of religious readers) near murdered me. They got me up before daylight and they drilled me and marched me and worked me until I wanted to lie down and die. Boy, it has been pure and unadulterated hell, if you ask me."

My theory is that it would be far, far better to let the autumn leaves lie where they fall, quietly decaying as winter advances. At the approach of spring there they would be, excellent fertilizer, full of vigor, supplying nutrient to every foot of soil. And think of the saving of physical effort.

But did you ever win a scientific argument at home? I honestly think that new rake should be added to the metal scrap heap. It might kill a Jap. The old one darn nigh killed me.

3 Ferry Heroes Shun Seizure To Meet Death

Americans Take 100-to-1 Chance Rather Than Be Interned.

By JOE MORTON.

SOMEWHERE IN WEST AFRICA, Oct. 9.—(Delayed)—(P)—The list of heroic Americans killed in action in the cause of their country has been lengthened by three fearless bomber ferry fliers who swapped safety of internment for a 100-to-1 chance to deliver the goods.

They are Emmett F. Clausewitz, pilot; E. G. Kail, first officer; and Marcus L. Corley, navigator, the latter from Miami, Fla. Their twin-engine aircraft, crippled in flight across the Atlantic, crashed after a desperate do-or-die effort to get beyond Vichy territory.

The wreckage was found on friendly soil—just a mile across the line.

First word that the three men were in trouble came to a United Nations base where I was visiting. "One engine is gone," they radioed. "What do you suggest?"

The base control officer took note of their position.

"You are nearing Vichy territory," he told them. "The beach is level and hard. I think you can get down okay. But your plane will be confiscated and you will be interned."

He told them, too, that the nearest friendly country offered nothing but a narrow strip of sand flanked by a rough plain and thick mangrove swamps. The decision was up to them.

The three men made their choice. They decided to deliver the bomber at the risk of their lives. There was no further word from them.

Wreck Found.

Eighteen hours later a veteran Pan-American Airways pilot, Steve Shaw, of Northampton, Mass., found the pile of smoldering wreckage. He made sure there were no survivors, then came back to the base for assistance.

Six men, myself among them, volunteered and climbed into his Grumman amphibian. After cruising two hours we again spotted the tragic ash-gray cross on the ground, and dropped softly into a small, uncharted lagoon.

An hour of steady walking through the jungle and down the beach brought us to the plane. The remains of the wing and the fuselage had to be lifted away before the charred bodies could be found.

The strangest of strange processions bore the three bodies back to the amphibian. A youthful officer led the way, followed by native bearers carrying the tragic burden in an improvised canvas sling attached to long poles. Others in the rescue group, soaked in perspiration from laboring under the equatorial sun, brought up the rear.

A superstitious native chief appeared en route to ask that the

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

NAVY DAY.

Tomorrow, October 27, is Navy Day. It will be the 21st anniversary of Navy Day, established in 1922, to honor the gallant men of our Navy and its related services—Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Merchant Marine.

October 27th was selected by the Navy League of the United States as the day for this annual tribute to the Navy because October 27th was the birth date of Theodore Roosevelt, who resigned as assistant secretary of the Navy in 1898 to organize his famous Rough Riders and lead that victorious band of Americans, including the present secretary of the Navy, the Hon. Frank Knox, in the Battle of San Juan Hill.

Having Navy Day in October is also appropriate because it was in October, 1775, that the continental congress authorized the establishment of our first Navy. It was not, however, until 1798 that our Navy Department was made an independent and recognized part of the federal government.

Through all these years the Navy has gloriously maintained its high purpose of being our first line of attack.

In his Navy Day message, Secretary Knox says: "I am proud to say that all America appreciates the magnificent job the Navy is doing, and America is expressing ground, and dropped softly into a small, uncharted lagoon.

An hour of steady walking through the jungle and down the beach brought us to the plane. The remains of the wing and the fuselage had to be lifted away before the charred bodies could be found.

A youthful officer led the way, followed by native bearers carrying the tragic burden in an improvised canvas sling attached to long poles. Others in the rescue group, soaked in perspiration from laboring under the equatorial sun, brought up the rear.

A superstitious native chief appeared en route to ask that the procession not go through his village.

At the lagoon where the Grumman floated, dugout canoes had to be obtained for ferrying the bodies out from shore. Overloaded by the added burden, the plane barely cleared the trees in the takeoff. Darkness descended before it got back to the base airport, lighted only by flares.

The next day an African Flanders field received the three heroes with full military ritual. Three volleys echoed across a warm hillside and down through a forest of rubber trees before the minister slowly intoned the benediction:

"We commit the bodies of these heroes, who died in the cause of freedom and the things we hold dear, and ask that everlasting consolation be their portion."

that gratitude by going 'all out' in the Navy expansion program. The shipyards are turning out the ships and planes, and red-blooded patriots from the length and breadth of our land are volunteering to man those ships and planes—willing to become part of our great Navy, Coast Guard and Marine Corps.

Captain J. V. Babcock, commandant of the U. S. Naval R. O. T. C. unit at the Georgia School of Technology, and senior Naval officer in the Atlanta area has aptly said: "The Navy is rendering an account of its stewardship by real action."

Since Navy casualties thus far in this war have exceeded those of the Navy throughout all its history, it is most fitting that we pause tomorrow and pay our respect to the defenders of our democracy on all the seven seas. Let us reaffirm on Navy Day our faith in each other and in our common cause; let us seize tomorrow as the day on which we will rededicate ourselves to the high and solemn call to all our sacrifice in support of the men who are so bravely and heroically manning our first line of attack.

This we may do by buying more war bonds, contributing our blood to the Red Cross blood bank, subscribing to the Community Fund, co-operating with all the service agencies ministering to the women and men of the armed forces, and, last but not least, praying daily unto God to bless our Navy and our Army.

We got a good start in the churches yesterday in observing Navy Day. Let us go on in full and faithful allegiance to these gallant men as we join with the nation's celebration.

Legion Honors Constitution for Editorials

The American Legion certificate of honor was awarded to The Constitution yesterday as Legionnaire from the fifth, seventh, ninth and 10th congressional districts of Georgia met at the Henry Grady hotel to map plans for taking over the sale of war savings bonds during November.

Lieutenant Commander Stanley Jones, state adjutant, made the presentation to Ralph McGill, editor of The Constitution, who served in the Marine Corps during World War I.

Signed by Lynn U. Stambaugh, national commander; Frank E. Samuel, national adjutant; Guy Stone, department commander, and Commander Jones, the citation stated:

"The Atlanta Constitution is awarded honorable mention for editorial material appraising the American Legion's ideals as exemplified in its program for 1941-42."

This award is granted by virtue of the authority of the national executive committee, the American Legion.

The award last year was presented to the Augusta Chronicle.

Yesterday's program was in charge of Jackson P. Dick, state commander, and Edgar B. Dunlap, of Gainesville, former state commander, and chairman of the Legion drive to sell $9,000,000 worth of war savings bonds and stamps during November.

Work already has begun in most sections of the state to perfect local organizations necessary to put over the intensive drive, Dunlap told post commanders and adjutants from the north Georgia districts. He expressed confidence that the state quota will be met.

Major Trammell Scott, of Atlanta, president of the Southern Association of Baseball Clubs and for many years a leader in Legion affairs, will serve as chairman of the fifth district.

From the seventh district will be Barry Wright, of Rome; Clyde M. McClure, of Toccoa, will serve from the ninth district, and George Barrett, of Augusta, will serve from the 10th district.

County-wide war bond rallies will be held in each of the 159 Georgia counties next Sunday, Dunlap said. Special speakers will be supplied by a speakers' committee, to be headed by General Walter Harris, of Toccoa.

Gallup Poll Finds:

Return To Dry Era Opposed

By GEORGE GALLUP.

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 25.—Although the dry forces in congress led by Senator Lee, of Oklahoma, have been pressing for a law to prohibit drinking around Army camps, public opinion is overwhelmingly opposed to another "dry era" for the nation.

A recent Institute survey found that if the question of country-wide prohibition were put to a vote in a national referendum, 58 per cent of the population would vote dry, 62 per cent wet.

Dry Forces Gain.

The dry forces have, however, gained some ground in recent years, the dry vote today being 5 per cent greater than it was in a similar Institute survey in 1936. But thus far the present war is apparently not having the same effect on prohibition sentiment as the last war did.

The dry forces are in a stronger position in the United States than similar forces are in two other warring nations where prohibition is being agitated—Canada and Australia.

Recent completed public opinion tests in those two countries show a smaller vote for prohibition than is found here. The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion, for example, reports that 29 per cent of Canadian voters favor the adoption of a dry law. This, total, however, represents a substantial increase since the first of the year, when only 20 per cent voted dry.

Trend of Wets.

While Canadians shun outright prohibition, nevertheless six out of every 10 (60 per cent) think that women should not be allowed in public bars.

In Australia, wartime prohibition is favored by about one voter in every four (26 per cent), according to a report from Australian Public Opinion Polls.

Here in the United States the American Institute has been charting the trend of prohibition sentiment at regular intervals since the eighteenth amendment was repealed.

The change over the years is shown in the following table:

	For	Prohibition Against
1933-34 Official State Referenda	30%	70%
Dec., 1936	32%	67%
Feb., 1938	34%	66%
Dec., 1938	36%	64%
Jan., 1940	34%	66%
Nov., 1940	32%	68%
Feb., 1942	36%	64%

He was a free American citizen and didn't care whether school kept or not. He could sleep somewhere, because he had numerous friends who liked him. I can't say why. But a lot of no-goods have friends. I liked the son-of-a-gun myself.

But he's in the Army now. And has been for six months. In one of the camps. Due, perhaps, to be sent overseas. He doesn't know. He's no hero. He didn't volunteer, because he never could quite get around to it. There were too many other things to do. But they drafted him. And they found his heart and lungs and liver and lights and eyes and ears and legs and feet all right—and gave him the works. The military forms, I understand, do not include a question about general laziness and cussedness.

"Boy, howdy," he said. "They have sure put me through the mill. They darn (I am softening the word because of religious readers) near murdered me. They got me up before daylight and they drilled me and marched me and worked me until I wanted to lie down and die. Boy, it has been pure and unadulterated hell, if you ask me."

"Why, if it is that bad," I suggested, just for a nibble, "maybe I can exert my powerful influence and get you out of the Army and you can come back and play around and escape all that hard work, which must bear down pretty hard on you."

"You can take your influence—any—and use it for some sissy boy," he returned. "I'm in the

In the Army Now—And Likes It; The Poor Bum!

Army now and I'm sticking. I've got to stick, whether I like it or not. But I do like it. See them corporal's stripes? I've got so tough I can bite a mule's hind leg off. I can sleep on a narrow turned upside down. I can eat breakfast—for the first time in 15 years. I always used to drink my breakfast. And I can lick you and three more like you, all at once. Want to try it?"

I would gladly have accepted his challenge except there were not three others present, barring feminine reporters. And no gentleman would strike a feminine reporter except in self defense.

Autumn Leaves.

A man with exceptionally poor judgment of tact and the fitness of things was a caller at our home the other afternoon. We were sitting in the sunshine in the backyard when he remarked upon how well, sturdy, strong and durable I was looking. The darn fool!

I made haste to explain that I was suffering from rheumatism in all four limbs, feared an attack of arthritis, felt my arteries growing more nearly petrified every day, was suffering from severe backache and had been advised by three specialists to refrain from any physical exertion beyond carrying my portion of steak—when there is steak.

"What do you suppose brought on all these maladies?" asked our visitor sympathetically.

"I'll answer that," responded the mistress of the manor. "Just look around you. The autumn leaves are falling down, falling down, falling down. They are three inches deep and growing deeper. That's what's producing all these symptoms. Last year he lost the rake—or threw it away. Now we have a nice new rake he doesn't dare destroy. So he develops symptoms."

Alas, too true. And it is useless for me to present my theory of agriculture, developed after interviews with experts.

It is almost universally conceded that decayed leaves, known as compost, make excellent fertilizer, containing all the carbohydrates, proteins, microcosms, most of the vitamins and probably a valuable proportion of butterfat.

It has been our habit to gather said leaves and tote them to a compost pen in the furthest reaches of our vast estate—which never seems quite so vast as in the autumn.

They just lie there and rot and next spring somebody must take a shovel and wheelbarrow and lug the residue back and spread it in the garden, under dictatorial directions.

My theory is that it would be far, far better to let the autumn leaves lie where they fall, quietly decaying as winter advances. At the approach of spring there they would be, excellent fertilizer, full of vigor, supplying nutriment to every foot of soil. And think of the saving of physical effort.

But did you ever win a scientific argument at home? I honestly think that new rake should be added to the metal scrap heap. It might kill a Jap. The old one darn nigh killed me.

3 Ferry Heroes Shun Seizure To Meet Death

Americans Take 100-to-1 Chance Rather Than Be Interned.

By JOE MORTON.

SOMEWHERE IN WEST AFRICA, Oct. 9.—(Delayed)—(P)—The list of heroic Americans killed in action in the cause of their country has been lengthened by three fearless bomber ferry fliers who swapped safety of internment for a 100-to-1 chance to deliver the goods.

They are Emmett F. Clausewitz, pilot; E. G. Kail, first officer, and Marcus L. Corley, navigator, the latter from Miami, Fla. Their twin-engine aircraft, crippled in flight across the Atlantic, crashed after a desperate do-or-die effort to get beyond Vichy territory.

The wreckage was found on friendly soil—just a mile across the line.

Three in Trouble. First word that the three men were in trouble came to a United Nations base where I was visiting.

"One engine is gone," they radioed. "What do you suggest?" The base control officer took note of their position.

"You are nearing Vichy territory," he told them. "The beach is level and hard. I think you can get down okay. But your plane will be confiscated and you will be interned."

He told them, too, that the nearest friendly country offered nothing but a narrow strip of sand flanked by a rough plain and thick mangrove swamps. The decision was up to them.

The three men made their choice. They decided to deliver the bomber at the risk of their lives. There was no further word from them.

Wreck Found. Eighteen hours later a veteran Pan-American Airways pilot, Steve Shaw, of Northampton, Mass., found the pile of smoldering wreckage. He headed south, where were no survivors, then came back to the base for assistance.

Six men, myself among them, volunteered and climbed into his Grumman amphibian. After cruising two hours we again spotted the tragic ash-gray cross on the

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Navy Day.

Tomorrow, October 27, is Navy Day. It will be the 21st anniversary of Navy Day, established in 1922, to honor the gallant men of our Navy and its related services—Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Merchant Marine.

October 27th was selected by the Navy League of the United States as the day for this annual tribute to the Navy because October 27th was the birth date of Theodore Roosevelt, who resigned as assistant secretary of the Navy in 1898 to organize his famous Rough Riders and lead that victorious band of Americans, including the present secretary of the Navy, the Hon. Frank Knox, in the Battle of San Juan Hill.

Having Navy Day in October is also appropriate because it was in October, 1776, that the continental congress authorized the establishment of our first Navy. It was not, however, until 1798 that our Navy Department was made an independent and recognized part of the federal government.

Through all these years the Navy has gloriously maintained its high purpose of being our first line of attack.

In his Navy Day message, Secretary Knox says: "I am proud to say that all America appreciates the magnificent job the Navy is doing, and America is expressing ground, and dropped softly into a small, uncharted lagoon. An hour of steady walking through the jungle and down the beach brought us to the plane. The remains of the wing and the fuselage had to be lifted away before the charred bodies could be found.

The strangest of strange processions bore the three bodies back to the amphibian. A youthful officer led the way, followed by native bearers carrying the tragic wreckage. He headed south, where were no survivors, then came back to the base for assistance.

Six men, myself among them, volunteered and climbed into his Grumman amphibian. After cruising two hours we again spotted the tragic ash-gray cross on the that gratitude by going 'all out' in the Navy expansion program. The shipyards are turning out the ships and planes, and red-blooded patriots from the length and breadth of our land are volunteering to man those ships and planes—eager to become part of our great Navy, Coast Guard and Marine Corps."

Captain J. V. Babcock, commandant of the U. S. Naval R. O. T. C. unit at the Georgia School of Technology, and senior Naval officer in the Atlanta area has aptly said: "The Navy is rendering an account of its stewardship by real action."

Since Navy casualties thus far in this war have exceeded those of the Navy throughout all its history, it is most fitting that we pause tomorrow and pay our respect to the defenders of our democracy on all the seven seas. Let us reaffirm on Navy Day our faith in each other and in our common cause; let us seize tomorrow as the day on which we will rededicate ourselves to the high and solemn call to all out sacrifice in support of the men who are so bravely and heroically manning our first line of attack.

This we may do by buying more war bonds, contributing our blood to the Red Cross blood bank, subscribing to the Community Fund, co-operating with all the service agencies ministering to the women and men of the armed forces, and last but not least, praying daily unto God to bless our Navy and our Army.

We got a good start in the churches yesterday in observing Navy Day. Let us go on in full and faithful allegiance to these gallant men as we join with the nation's celebration.

The next day an African Flamingo field received the three heroes with full military ritual. Three volleys echoed across a warm hillside and down through a forest of rubber trees before the minister slowly intoned the benediction:

"We commit the bodies of these heroes who died in the cause of freedom and the things we hold dear, and ask that everlasting consolation be their portion."

A superstitious native chief appeared en route to ask that the procession not go through his village. At the lagoon where the Grumman floated, dugout canoes had to be obtained for ferrying the bodies out from shore. Overloaded by the added burden, the plane barely cleared the trees in the takeoff. Darkness descended before it got back to the base airport, lighted only by flares.

Legion Honors Constitution for Editorials

The American Legion certificate of honor was awarded to The Constitution yesterday as Legionnaires from the fifth, seventh, ninth and 10th congressional districts of Georgia met at the Henry Grady hotel to map plans for taking over the sale of war savings bonds during November.

Lieutenant Commander Stanley Jones, state adjutant, made the presentation to Ralph McGill, editor of The Constitution, who served in the Marine Corps during World War I.

Signed by Lynn U. Stambaugh, national commander; Frank E. Samuel, national adjutant; Guy Stone, department commander, and Commander Jones, the citation stated:

"The Atlanta Constitution is awarded honorable mention for editorial material appraising the American Legion's ideals as exemplified in its program for 1941-42. This award is granted by virtue of the authority of the national executive committee, the American Legion."

The award last year was presented to the Augusta Chronicle.

Yesterday's program was in charge of Jackson P. Dick, state commander, and Edgar B. Dunlap, of Gainesville, former state commander, and chairman of the Legion drive to sell $9,000,000 worth of war savings bonds and stamps during November.

Work already begun in most sections of the state to perfect local organizations necessary to put over the intensive drive, Dunlap told post commanders and adjutants from the north Georgia districts. He expressed confidence that the state quota will be met.

Major Trammell Scott, of Atlanta, president of the Southern Association of Baseball Clubs and for many years a leader in Legion affairs, will serve as chairman of the fifth district.

From the seventh district will be Barry Wright, of Rome; Clyde M. McClure, of Toccoa, will serve from the ninth district, and George Barrett, of Augusta, will serve from the 10th district. County-wide war bond rallies will be held in each of the 159 Georgia counties next Sunday, Dunlap said. Special speakers will be supplied by a speakers' committee, to be headed by General Walter Harris, of Toccoa.

Gallup Poll Finds:

Return To Dry Era Opposed

By GEORGE GALLUP.

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 25.—Although the dry forces in congress led by Senator Lee, of Oklahoma, have been pressing for a law to prohibit drinking around Army camps, public opinion is overwhelmingly opposed to another "dry era" for the nation.

A recent Institute survey found that if the question of country-wide prohibition were put to a vote in a national referendum, 38 per cent of the population would vote dry, 62 per cent wet.

Dry Forces Gain. The dry forces have, however, gained some ground in recent years, the dry vote today being 5 per cent greater than it was in a similar Institute survey in 1936. But thus far the present war is apparently not having the same effect on prohibition sentiment as the last war did.

The dry forces are in a stronger position in the United States than similar forces are in two other warring nations where prohibition is being agitated—Canada and Australia.

Recently completed public opinion tests in those two countries show a smaller vote for prohibition than is found here. The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion, for example, reports that 29 per cent of Canadian voters favor the adoption of a dry law. This total, however, represents a substantial increase since the first of the year, when only 20 per cent voted dry.

Trend of Wets. While Canadians shun outright prohibition, nevertheless six out of every 10 (60 per cent) think that women should not be allowed in public bars.

In Australia, wartime prohibition is favored by about one voter in every four (26 per cent), according to a report from Australian Public Opinion Polls.

Here in the United States the American Institute has been charting the trend of prohibition sentiment at regular intervals since the eighteenth amendment was repealed.

The change over the years is shown in the following table:

	For	Prohibition	Against
1933-34 Official State Referenda	30%	70%
Dec., 1936	33	67
Feb., 1938	34	66
Dec., 1938	36	64
Jan., 1940	34	66
Nov., 1940	32	68
Feb., 1942	36	64
Sept., 1942	38	62

Rent Service for Uniforms, Coats for Restaurants, Barber Shops

Cotton State Linen Service Company, Inc.

Rent Uniforms of All Types, as Well as Towels for Offices.

Proving a great help and convenience to Atlanta hotels, restaurants, cafeterias, barber shops, and such places as need clean and bright uniforms of various types, the Cotton State Linen Service Company, Inc., at 1024 DeKalb avenue, N. E., is finding itself in constant demand these days.

This concern, Atlanta owned, and founded by S. R. (Tubby) Davis, an Atlanta-born and reared man, specializes in furnishing women's and men's uniforms, laying special emphasis on such garments as make restaurant workers appear always neat, trim and attractive.

Not only does it do a renting service on uniforms, but the concern operates its own laundry, where, as the uniforms are gathered and clean ones left in their place, the soiled uniforms are put through a thorough sanitary cleaning before being delivered again.

Any type of garment—uni-

This concern furnishes a rent service on uniforms, aprons, towels, etc., to restaurants, hotels, barber shops and the like, with quick service and reasonable rates.

forms, coats, aprons, tablecloths, or the like—are furnished on a service plan, with regular deliveries at stated periods. That always insures neat, attractive helpers at work in places where uniforms are needed—and expected. The rates charged for the service are a boast of Mr. Davis that they are the lowest in the city.

Not only the type and sizes of garments can be taken into consideration—thus always providing working garments that fit—but the materials from which they are made are such that they launder well and look even dressy when worn.

The Cotton State Linen Service Company operate four trucks, giving to the city and suburbs complete coverage, with always quick and dependable service. If you are employing help in your eating place, in your barber shop, or hotel, or any place where you want your employees to look spic and span, phone this concern, Jackson 3095, and let it fit out your help with the cleanest and neatest uniforms possible to obtain.

The linen service concern also states that it furnishes a hand towel service for downtown offices at reasonable rates. Grommet lock-on towel racks make their use in manufacturing plants, service stations and such places safe and desirable.

Mr. Davis, the founder and manager, is well known in Atlanta. He was educated in the city schools, and later attended Fulton High school. He has applied himself studiously to building up a needed business for the city, and his friends congratulate him upon the deserved success with which he is meeting.

M. OLIVER NIX, assistant general agent Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, in charge while Emory L. Jenks, general agent, is serving as a captain in the U. S. Army.

Jenks to Army, Nix in Charge Life Agency

While Captain Jenks Serves Uncle Sam, Nix Will 'Carry On.'

Taking his place as an active participant in the war emergency, being recently commissioned as a captain in the United States Army, Emory L. Jenks, general agent in Atlanta for the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, has left the operation of his agency in the hands of M. Oliver Nix, designating him as assistant general agent.

Captain Jenks, who voluntarily entered upon his war duties, has been ordered to active duty, and is now out of the city, serving his government. His friends, and the friends of Mr. Nix, agree that no better selection could have been made of a man to carry on the agency's activities than the selection of Mr. Nix. He is ably fitted to supervise the agency in rendering efficient service to Pacific Mutual policyholders and friends, both in maintenance of present insurance and the acquisition of new patrons.

Mr. Nix has had 25 years of Big Tree Club membership, close to 600 weeks of uninterrupted weekly production, is an Accident and 5-Way devotee and right now is working overtime selling War Bonds for Uncle Sam on salary allotment plans. He has been president of the Atlanta Life Underwriters Association, helped organize the state association in 1935 and served it as officer and director.

Captain Jenks, in his years with the Pacific Mutual, has built up a wonderful group of folks to carry the banner of this well-known life insurance company. The sacrifice he is making in turning over the agency to his trained life insurance men and women is strengthened in the knowledge that they will well "carry on," despite missing the experience and advice and cordial co-operation always so freely given by Mr. Jenks. Those who are left behind have an average Pacific Mutual service of more than fourteen years, and their loyalty will remain a fine asset to Mr. Nix, who is receiving the congratulations of his many friends on his promotion, even though regretting the absence of Mr. Jenks, brought about by his admired loyalty to the government.

Mr. Nix and his group will carry on for the home front in their well-equipped and commodious offices in the William-Oliver Building.

New York Stock House Is Ready for Merchants

Stocks Are Well Supplied, With Plenty of Mid-Season Fill-Ins.

This season, more than ever before, the interest of Mr. Merchant can best be served by constantly having on the racks for his needs the types of merchandise that is salable at the particular time of the year.

Realizing this important matter, the New York Stock House has arranged to keep seasonable merchandise rolling at all times. The logical time for fill-ins is now. The first purchases of earlier in the season have been pretty well sold down, and to keep the consumer's interest it is necessary to keep the stocks well filled.

As a matter of information to merchants who find it convenient to come to Atlanta during the next week or so, there will be found a new selection of pastel woolsens in one and two-piece garments, and also the newest shades of football colors in the silk dresses. Also new coats in plaids, tweeds and bouclé.

Jackets in woolsens and corduroys are a very big item at this time, and so are woolen sport and dress suits. A complete selection of these may also be found ready for delivery at the stock rooms of the New York Stock House.

Another very important feature of the stock room of the New York Stock House is that merchandise does not have to be bought from samples. The goods may be selected from the racks and immediate shipments made. This insures prompt delivery of merchandise selected.

German Armor, Allied Planes In Deadly Duel

Aircraft Keep Rommel From Disposing His Tank Forces.

By EDWARD KENNEDY.

WITH THE ALLIED FORCES ON THE ALAMEIN FRONT, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A terrific battle between German armor and Allied aircraft—perhaps the fiercest pitched battle of this type the war has yet seen—opened at dawn today in the Egyptian desert.

As great panzer formations were massing to try to halt the powerful British offensive, United Nations air forces started a big attack designed to make it difficult for Marshal Rommel's forces even to get into position for battle.

By mid-morning four big raids had been made with scores of tons of bombs unloaded upon them. The day's air activity promised to surpass that of yesterday which was the greatest air day in the desert so far.

Black With Planes. Both bombers and fighters made a greater number of sorties than yesterday. Never have the skies over Allied striking bases been so black with planes.

In the whole day's operation one fighter and eight bombers were lost. Little enemy opposition was encountered.

Although opposing armored forces have not yet come to direct grips, a number of German tanks have been knocked out from the air, some of them going up in flames.

I passed part of the day with a crack Australian squadron which holds the record among desert squadrons for the number of enemy planes shot down—almost two hundred.

A jeep from a near-by American bomber squadron came over to the Australian base. American fliers made a call between raids to thank the Australians because two Australian fighter pilots had remained with an American bomber the day before, giving it special protection as it limped home on one motor.

Aussies Fascinated. The Australians, who have plenty of slang of their own, are adopting some expressions which appeal to them.

The Australian squadron had contact with American fighters as well as the disabled bomber yesterday. The Aussies were hovering over an enemy air field, inviting the boys on the ground to come up and fight. By radio they received a message that a group of Messerschmitts was 30 miles away, heading for them.

Suddenly a voice with an American accent broke in on the conversation.

"These are no Messerschmitts; this is us," said the voice.

OPA Deputy Says U. S. In for Much Rationing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Paul M. O'Leary, the plain-spoken director of philosophy who runs rationing for Leon Henderson, warned today that Americans were in for "a lot more rationing if the war lasts a couple of years longer."

He declined to discuss the current problem child, coffee, but made it clear that the Office of Price Administration, of which he is deputy administrator for rationing, would not hesitate to ration it, if necessary, just because it might be considered a luxury or because it contained caffeine.

The Army and Navy in Georgia

Fred Melton, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Quimby Melton, of Griffin, has volunteered for service in the Army and will report for induction November 3 at Fort McPherson.

Young Melton, a junior at the University of Georgia, was a sergeant in the Cavalry Unit of Advanced R. O. T. C. there. His older brother, Quimby Jr., will be graduated from the university December 19 and will then report to officers' training camp.

Seven Schley county boys left last week for induction into the Army at Fort McPherson. They included Charles Henry Price, John Archie Hanner, Raymond Victor McDaniel, J. B. Eubanks, Uriah Jackson, Jesse M. McLendon, Tom Hill Tondee.

Corporal Ernest L. Gragg visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lige Gragg, recently at their home in Lakemont on a six-day furlough from Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyo., where he is stationed with the Quartermaster Department.

Pascal B. Hopkins, 19, son of Carlos Hopkins, deputy clerk of Major Frank Davis, vice president of the First National Bank, who recently received his commission as major in the Army, will leave here today to assume his duties in Washington with the Service of Supply.

Allied Planes Rule Skies in Desert Drive

Qattara depression 80 miles west of Alexandria.

But war correspondents had the assurance of the British field commander, Lieutenant General Bernard L. Montgomery, that his preparations were complete and he meant business.

"British and Allied troops fighting in front are first-class soldiers and I am determined they will have success," he said at a press conference.

The gashes in the enemy positions had been made by dawn Saturday and throughout the intense desert fighting yesterday "our gains were maintained in spite of enemy counterattacks."

"Fighting continues," the communiqué said. Submarines of the Mediterranean fleet sank five more Italian supply ships, probably sank a destroyer and damaged five other ships trying to ferry supplies to the hard-pressed forces under Marshal Rommel.

Headquarters spoke of the action Saturday as involving "advanced elements of the Eighth Army," an indication that the main forces had not yet collided.

The Eighth Army commander whose order of the day was to "destroy Rommel and his Army," told war correspondents today.

"The Allies have been plugging holes all over the world. Our forces therefore have been stretched. Now the Germans are getting into that position of being stretched, as well as the Japanese. With the Americans on our side, we may be able to do something about it now."

He praised the splendid co-operation between the land and air commands.

The skies were thicker with United States, British and Allied planes than ever before. A record number of sorties were made in the hardest nonstop battering ever meted out to the Axis in Africa.

Enemy on Defensive. Enemy aviation has been thrown completely on the defensive.

A full array of United States fighters, fighter-bombers and medium bombers made "continuous and repeated attacks throughout the day yesterday against enemy positions, gun emplacements and motor vehicles in the western desert," U. S. Army headquarters announced. The desert fliers reported many direct hits on gun positions and motor vehicles, and many fires. Few Axis fighters were encountered, giving eloquent evidence of the marked superiority the Allies hold in the air.

The RAF also found few planes in the air—only one was shot down—but anti-aircraft fire was heavy at all targets. The Americans reported no losses, but the RAF said 12 planes were missing of which two bomber crews and four fighter pilots were saved.

The eager land forces had been rejuvenated by mountains of U. S. material.

(The Italian communiqué said the British attacked the northern and southern sectors of the El Alamein front, but that all assaults were repulsed with heavy losses, including 47 tanks. The British were said to be using strong armored forces and infantry and to have attacked after intense artillery preparation. "The battle continues," Rome added.

German Reports. (The Germans were less flamboyant: "The enemy after strong artillery preparation launched an expected large-scale attack on a wide front. Strong enemy infantry and tank formations as well as strong aerial formations are employed. Embittered fighting is taking place at present.")

The Germans for two months have been feverishly building a strong defense in depth behind the 35-mile bottleneck from the Mediterranean to the Qattara Depression. The first clashes were only 50 miles west of Alexandria to which point Rommel had driven after shattering Allied armor this summer and taking Tobruk.

The Germans had four armored divisions, two of them Italian; a German motorized division; a German infantry division partially motorized, and at least six Italian infantry divisions, none of which approached full strength. Their numerical strength probably is in the neighborhood of 125,000 men. The British strength is drawn from many diverse nationalities.

Jobs Offered To I-A Men Awaiting Call

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A large Chicago department store hung out the "Help Wanted" sign today for a number of modest salary jobs with absolutely no future.

The openings are for the "forgotten men" of the World War II—the I-A draft registrants awaiting a call for active service in the near future.

This advertisement appeared in local newspapers today:

"Perhaps you have been classified I-A, but do not know just when you will be called. It's pretty hard to get a job under those circumstances. With this problem in mind, Marshall Field & Company has available a number of temporary jobs for which we will consider applicants who are classified I-A, I-B or who for any other legitimate reason may have to give up a position on short notice."

Colonel Paul G. Armstrong, state draft director, complimented the organization for "humane consideration" and suggested that other retailers follow the lead.

Known to be in the opening battles were Australians and New Zealanders, including the native Maoris; the first South African division, the fourth Indian division, the 44th home countries division, the 50th Northumbrian division, the 51st Highlands division, plus Americans, Fighting French and Greeks.

The British have never disclosed their full strength but it is believed to be superior in men, tanks, guns as well as planes to anything the Axis holds.

For two months, the sky-riding Allies have seriously hampered Axis attempts to reinforce and supply their army, sinking a large share of vessels venturing out on the Mediterranean and destroying vast stores of fighting material that managed to get through.

Hurley in Cairo. Brigadier General Patrick J. Hurley, United States minister to New Zealand, reached Cairo on special orders from the War Department of which he once was secretary. He was on a mission for President Roosevelt.

The desert task force of the United States Army Air Force in the Middle East had its biggest day Saturday.

Throughout the entire day fighters, fighter-bombers and medium Billy Mitchell B-25 bombers were over the swirling desert battlefield. Their strafing went on into the night as they attacked targets of every kind to smash out the path of advance through mine fields, gun positions and barbed wire entanglements.

In many instances American fighters escorted United States medium bombers. In others, British fighters and bombers flew wing to wing with the Americans to punish enemy positions, caravans and landing grounds.

On several missions, American crews reported they had seen not a single enemy aircraft. Others which spotted planes with Axis battle markings said the enemy ran and refused to give combat.

Army Aviator Killed In Crash Near Toccoa

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Morris Field authorities announced today that First Lieutenant Harry T. Critz, 25, of Starkville, Miss., was killed yesterday in the crash of his fighter plane near Toccoa, Ga.

The cause of the crash is yet unknown, but a board of investigation is checking. Lieutenant Critz' body is being sent to Arcadia, La., where his widow lives.

Lieutenant Critz came here last August 15. He won his wings at Maxwell Field, Ala., May 29, 1941. He was a student at the Mississippi Institute of Aeronautics at Jackson, Miss., when he entered the Air Corps.

Large Miami Hotel Put in Hands of Navy

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Hollywood Beach Hotel, largest in Florida and important to the area's peacetime winter seasons, was in Navy hands today for the duration of the war. The huge boomtime structure contains 800 rooms and represents an investment of $4,000,000. Its spacious grounds and golf course also went to the Navy under a condemnation order signed late last night by Federal Judge John W. Holland at Miami.

Georgia Woman Is Thrilled As Grandson Blasts Kiska Japs

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. BLAKELY, Ga., Oct. 25.—This little southwest Georgia town literally stood up and cheered yesterday when it was learned that Captain Collier Davidson, of this city, was the pilot of the Army bomber which had been making it hot and furious for the Japs at Kiska. Captain Davidson, 23, is the grandson of Mrs. W. H. Alexander, of this city, with whom he spent the past Mother's Day.

When Captain Davidson was here last he was en route to his home base at Barksdale Field, La., and he confided to friends that he thought he was going to be one of the lucky fellows who were about to see some combat duty. Captain Davidson comes from a family of daring men. His grandfather was a physician. His father, Colonel Davidson, was an airplane pilot and was killed a year ago in a plane crash in Indiana. He has an uncle, Captain W. H. Alexander, who is a pilot in the Army now. His mother is Mrs. Vivian Davidson, of Chicago. He has an only sister, Peggy, a senior at Northwestern University.

People remember young Captain Davidson here as a handsome boy who wasn't afraid of anything and never backed off from a fight.

His grandmother is the most thrilled woman in this city, as she sits busily at the telephone answering congratulatory messages which have been coming in since the news was broadcast. She hadn't heard from her now famous grandson since early in September.

The last note she had from him he stated that he was seeing plenty of fire works, sleeping in a zipper bag and having the time of his life. This little city is planning a great welcome when he comes home.

"IS GOD DEAD?"

Every thinking American knows that there must exist, somewhere, an invisible superhuman Power which can step into this confused world picture and bring peace, happiness, good health and prosperity to all. Such a Power, however, has not yet been disclosed to us by anyone. No idea or theory of God advanced to date has been able to demonstrate any such Power. Yet such a Power exists. It must exist—and it must be God. And if this invisible superhuman Power which is God cannot manifest here and now, when we most need it, then there is no God worth having.

Years ago we investigated current theories of God and decided they needed a lot of revamping. We made, and announced to the world, THE MOST STARTLING, EPOCHAL RELIGIOUS DISCOVERY OF ALL TIME. We discovered two amazing things about the invisible superhuman Power of God. Here they are: FIRST—we discovered that such an invisible superhuman Power as we are talking about, does exist. It is dynamic in its actions, and it can be used by all, here and now, to bring to us an abundance of every spiritual and material happiness. It is able to perform seeming miracles for us all whenever necessary.

DR. FRANK B. ROBINSON
Founder "Psychiana," Moscow, Idaho

SECOND: the amazing thing about this new concept of God is that all the Power of God is at our disposal, not after we die but BEFORE WE DIE, when we can enjoy it to the very full. And there is no bar to who may or may not find and use the Power of the Spirit of God. Affiliation with a religious organization is, of course, good. BUT IT IS NOT ESSENTIAL TO OUR FINDING THE POWER OF THE INVISIBLE SPIRIT OF GOD. Being a universal God, its Power is for all—not for a chosen few. Nor is it limited in its ability to manifest here and now.

This is a startling discovery of spiritual Power. And, whether you believe it or not, the Power is for YOU. Two booklets are here in Moscow awaiting your name and address. They cost you nothing. They tell how Dr. Robinson, the founder of the Psychiana Movement, actually and literally "talked with God," and they tell what happened after he had "talked with God." And the same Power Dr. Robinson found and used is available to you, here and now. You might just as well begin using the staggering Power of God tonight—right in your own home.

We are being flooded with requests for information about the Power of the Spirit of God. We will answer all requests. Send your name and address to "Psychiana," Inc., Dept. 619, Moscow, Idaho, and free information will come to you just as fast as we can send it.

★ ★ ★ AN ASTOUNDING PROPHECY ★ ★ ★

Ten years ago Dr. Robinson predicted this war. He told what nations would be lined up against other nations. He predicted the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. The prophecy came true in a remarkable manner. Now—he makes another astounding prophecy. How long will the war last? Which side will be victorious? How will Hitler and Hirohito meet their doom? Will Tokyo go up in flames? A FREE COPY of this amazing prophecy will be included if you mail your request—NOW. We cannot promise to repeat this offer. SO SEND NOW. You might just as well begin to use the invisible superhuman Power of God right tonight—right in your own home. The address again is "Psychiana," Inc. Dept. 619, Moscow, Idaho.

Eyewitness Account Of Opening Battle In Big Desert Push

By FRANK L. MARTIN.

A BRITISH ADVANCE OBSERVATION POST ON THE EL ALAMEIN FRONT, Oct. 24.—(Delayed)—(AP)—From this vantage point facing the enemy lines on two sides I saw the opening barrage last night in the thundering Allied offensive against the Axis in the Egyptian desert.

British Warned To Prepare for Big Gas Attack

Noted Scientist Haldane
Advises Mask-Carrying During Winter.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(P)—The eminent British scientist, J. B. S. Haldane, warned today that Britain probably will be subjected to a big gas attack from Adolf Hitler, probably when a second front is opened.

Speaking to a civil defense workers' conference, he said the attack may be "against London, Birmingham or some other large city—possibly against invasion ports when the second front is opened."

"Doubtless Hitler has large reserves of poison gas," Haldane said. "He presumably will use them and the most probable target is Britain."

"The attack with persistent gas probably will be made fairly early on a winter night so that the contaminated areas cannot be fully evacuated until morning. The public in the large towns should carry their masks during the winter months if they have to be in the streets during darkness."

His advice was counter to that of Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, who on July 30 said he believed it no longer was necessary to carry gas masks because "I do not anticipate an immediate gas attack and for all I know it may never come."

Gayda Says British Exposing Prisoners

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Oct. 25.—(P)—Virgilio Gayda charged in an article in La Voce d'Italia today the British have bound Italian war prisoners and placed them near airmen where they are exposed to Italian and German bombs.

"It is only natural," he wrote, "that the British must now expect the appropriate answer. Everything that might happen in the near future on the German and Japanese side will be the result of the initiative in such matters on the part of the Anglo-Americans."

U.S. Boys Yell, 'Hello, Eleanor'; Want Letters, Warmer Socks

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(P)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has become "Eleanor" to American soldiers here, revealed today that these troops have confided to her the two things they want most—thicker socks and more letters from home.

American soldiers were on hand early to give her a cheery greeting. Doughboys were at the gate of Buckingham palace, where Mrs. Roosevelt is a guest of the royal family, and when she drove out this morning they yelled, "Hello, Eleanor."

Mrs. Roosevelt and her secretary, Miss Malvina Thompson, visited the Washington Club, the American Red Cross' biggest service men's center here. They pushed slowly through a crush of several hundred soldiers and sailors, speaking with many as they moved from room to room.

In the cafeteria Mrs. Roosevelt addressed the crowd. She said that her son, Lieutenant Colonel Elliott Roosevelt, told her there are many southerners, largely from Texas, in his air force command. English weather is a jolt to them. Many have had colds, and their thoughts have turned to warmer socks.

"You may not get thicker socks right away, because it takes a lot to change things the Army does," Mrs. Roosevelt continued.

"I learned also that you would like more letters. One of you told me he hasn't had any mail for two months. My boy in the Solomons said the things they missed most was mail. It's almost impossible to get letters to them out there, but there's no reason you shouldn't have more mail here."

(Mrs. Roosevelt did not say which of her sons is in the Solomons, but Major James Roosevelt, of the Marines, last was reported in the southwest Pacific area.)

October 26, 1942.

The barrage, of a scope unprecedented in north African warfare, started on the minute at 9:40 o'clock. Only a few hundred yards in front of this observation post were troops of the British Eighth Army, motionless in the bright moonlight as they awaited the zero hour to charge.

Screaming shells from the big guns tore holes in the enemy line through which Allied forces poured. Towards morning the troops took up a position behind the enemy front line.

Greatest Blow.
In this new Allied offensive Lieutenant General B. L. Montgomery is throwing a greater striking force against the Germans and Italians than in any battle during three years of north African warfare.

There are no American ground forces in this clash, but the American Air Force is playing a big part in air attacks upon enemy troops and gun positions in combined operations with the RAF and South African Air Force.

As I watched from this observation post with my back to the Mediterranean and looking south along the El Alamein front hundreds of guns opened up, almost as one, giving the first warning to the enemy that the Allies were on the attack.

Shells were flying over my head from the batteries to rear and left. A few minutes after the preliminary bombardment began Britons, Australians, New Zealanders, Greeks, South Africans and Free French streamed forward in a general push.

Work in Unison.
Every officer, soldier and truck driver had been told what was required of him and what his part was to be when the action started.

As the minutes dragged by, the artillery began concentrating on an area to the front of the outpost where Allied ground troops had orders to break through the enemy lines and open a wide gap in the enemy mine fields.

The noise of the cannonading got so terrific at times that you couldn't hear yourself shout.

A few yards behind me and so close that in lulls I could hear the order to fire, still heavier British guns spoke up. With each salvo, sand and dust, kicked up close, knocking on the helmet, whistled through the outpost. About 10 miles in front of me I saw these shells burst.

Signal lights winked out one by one as our infantry units moved in close, knocking out German forward positions.

Shortly before midnight United States, RAF and South African airmen joined the fray. Suddenly from their planes flares were dropped, lighting up the ground to my front and right where the Axis big guns were. Bombs whistled down to add to the din created by the deluge of artillery shells engulfing the Axis positions.

This double dose of exploding steel did its work well, for the confusion was so great among enemy positions that the Allies were able to surge forward without the great opposition from Axis heavy field pieces.

At 2 a. m. the artillery was keeping up its destructive pace. A lane had been cut in the enemy line and the protective mine field cut up into a series of safe lanes for our forces to move through. Before sunrise the Allies had established themselves behind the enemy "soft stuff"—troops, unarmored vehicles and forward artillery posts.

First Phase Successful.
The first phase of the battle was successful.

Allied armor had not yet come in contact with enemy tanks. In hand-to-hand fighting, Australians, Indians, Greeks, Britons, New Zealanders and South Africans all captured their share of German and Italian prisoners in the first few hours of battle.

The Allied air force is playing an important role in this new battle of the desert.

Days before the offensive started medium bombers passed overhead almost hourly on their way to enemy territory. Swarms of fighters provided escort.

Many very heavy Allied bombers could be seen over the battlefield. Crews of some of them made trip after trip during daylight hours.

WPB Orders Halt In Work on 2 Dams

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(P)—The War Production Board, through Donald M. Nelson, today notified the Tennessee Valley Authority to stop work on the Watauga and South Holston dams located in the extreme northeastern section of the valley. The two dams were included among a number of other large construction jobs throughout the country which WPB decided were not essential to the immediate war effort.

Turkey Stands Firmly.
Ankara Editor Says
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25.—(P)—There is no need for the United Nations to worry about a shift of Turkish policy to the Axis, leaving open a door to the Near East, four visiting newsmen from the country declared here today.

"There is absolutely no possibility of an alliance of our government with the Axis," said Sukru Esmer, Ankara, editor, spokesman for the group in an interview.

Miss Emily Bullowa,
Woman Lawyer, Dies
NEW CITY, N. Y., Oct. 25.—(P)—Miss Emily M. Bullowa, 73, founder and first president of the Women Lawyers Association, later the National Association of Women Lawyers, died at her home today.

Active on many Bar Association committees, Miss Bullowa also was interested in charities and recently donated a law library of more than 2,000 volumes to the new criminal courts branch of the Legal Aid Society.

SOVIET PRODUCTION.
MOSCOW, Oct. 25.—(P)—The Soviet Union has increased production of armaments and has brought more than a million new workers into industry since Germany attacked in 1941, the Communist party newspaper Pravda said today in reviewing a quarter century of Soviet rule.

FIVE DIE IN CRASH.
COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 25.—(P)—Five enlisted men were killed in the crash near here yesterday of a medium Army bomber in the course of a flight from Columbia Army air base. The plane crashed in a wood 15 miles from the base.

JEWEL ROBBERY.
BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 25.—(P)—A small safe, stolen from the home of Lieutenant Commander Stephen V. R. Spaulding Jr., was recovered today by police, but the door had been jimmied open and jewels estimated to be worth about $50,000 were gone.

PRODUCE SAVED.
BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 25.—(P)—Migratory labor camps and transportation of farm workers into western New York by the Farm Security Administration "saved" countless tons of precious produce needed for the war effort," J. H. Wood, regional FSA director, asserted today.

4 Die When Plane
Plummets Into City
WENATCHEE, Wash., Oct. 25.—(P)—Four persons were killed in an airplane collision directly over Wenatchee today. One plane plummeted to earth in flames, the other, with one wing torn off, spiraled down slowly.

RAID IN CHINA.
CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 25.—(P)—The strategically important town of Mengtzi, in Yunnan province, was raided today for the second time in 24 hours as six enemy planes plastered it with bombs, the Chinese Central News Agency reported tonight.

Today, Dr. Will pointed out, the ships carry to the oceans the most precious cargo ever sent forth from America, her sons who go to protect the flag wherever it may be taken in this greatest crusade to preserve the things that men hold dear.

There was the prayer for the Navy: . . . vouchsafe to take into Thy Almighty and most gracious protection our country's Navy, and all who serve therein . . .

And for those who have gone down to the sea in ships, never to return: Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, in whose hands are the living and the dead; we give thanks for all those thy servants who have laid down their lives in the service of our country and the United States Navy . . .

Midshipmen presented the colors at the altar, dipping them for the traditional ritualistic blessing of the church.

Their ranks formed again outside the church and they marched away. Honor had been paid those who have yielded their lives—a task remained to be accomplished.

"SANTA" GETS STUCK.
BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 25.—(P)—Tommy Hawkins, 14, was two months ahead of Santa Claus but not quite as elusive. He decided to demonstrate Santa's annual visit, using an outdoor fireplace as the setting. He got stuck. The fire department hauled him out sooty but unhurt.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(P)—John S. Koehn doesn't want his bride to assume his name when they're married. He wants it vice versa. In a superior court petition, Koehn asks permission to adopt the name of John S. Marchis. The surname, he explained, is that of his bride-to-be, who was not further identified.

TRIAL TO OPEN.
MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 25.—(P)—Vincent Christy, 37, will go on trial tomorrow in circuit court on a charge of murdering Irving Leopold. The ex-convict, arrested more than a month ago in Jacksonville, also is charged with killing Leopold's wife, Esther, 32; her six-year-old son, and Ralph J. Morin, 19, on July 17 and 18.

Nazis Claim Sinking
Of 16 Ships, Destroyer
BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Oct. 25.—(P)—The German high command reported today the sinking of 16 Allied merchant ships and a destroyer by U-boats attacking convoys and ships sailing alone "in the north Atlantic, in the Arctic Sea, off the Canadian coast, at Trinidad, off the Congo estuary and off Cape Town."

Recapping today faces its greatest challenge! Under Price Administrator Henderson's plan to provide tires to keep every passenger car "rolling for essential mileage" for the duration, recapping is to provide the giant share of this mileage! And since only the "minimum amount of rubber will be used to meet the individual need," America's tire recappers should see to it that motorists get recap jobs that will give them the maximum wear out of this "minimum amount of rubber." And that's where we come in.

Tire treading is our business—it's not a sideline with us, and never has been. We've pioneered tire treading here, we've believed in it, and we've grown up with it. We know what a good recap can do, and we believe we've got what it takes to make a good recap—equipment, skill and continuous, intensive experience. We, at Prior Tire Co. can handle more than one-half of all tire recapping and repairing in Fulton County, and do it right! We are ready!

Like thousands of other smaller businesses in America, we, too, have pledged every facility to our nation's life struggle. We are constantly aware of the solemn responsibility that rests with every firm dealing in rubber. It is said that 70% of the war effort is here on the home front, and that this precious rubber is being allocated for necessary civilian use to keep this home front rolling. We pledge to do our sincere level best to make every pound of rubber we use in recapping go as far as it possibly can—in good, safe, efficient mileage!

Capt. Babcock Will Speak on Navy Program

Rotarians To Hear Tech
Officer Today; Observance Set Tomorrow.

Captain J. V. Babcock, commandant of the Georgia Tech Naval ROTC, will speak at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon before the Rotary Club at the Ansley hotel, as part of the city's observance of Navy Day, which is tomorrow.

The city's observance of the anniversary will culminate in a Navy Day banquet at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Atlanta Athletic Club with Eric A. Johnson, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, as the main speaker. His subject will be the "Challenge of Change." The banquet is being sponsored by the Navy League of Atlanta and the Chamber of Commerce.

Lieutenant Commander Stanley Jones, in charge of recruiting in Georgia, will induct Charles Dewey Eden into the Navy at the banquet, while Yeoman John H. Oetjen will be the guest and song leader. He will be accompanied by Marcus Bartlett.

Lieutenant Commander J. M. Sweeney will speak before the Kiwanis Club at its luncheon at the Ansley hotel at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. His subject will be "Our Present Day Navy."

Lieutenant Bethea To Speak at Dalton

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
DALTON, Ga., Oct. 25.—Navy Day celebration on a large scale will be observed in Dalton Tuesday night at the Hotel Dalton, when all civic clubs here join forces at a dinner at 7:30 o'clock.

The Civitans, Rotarians, Jaycees and Lions have moved their next meeting dates either up or back on the calendar to coincide with the big Navy Day dinner to be held in the main dining room of the Hotel Dalton. Local promoters of this particular celebration have obtained C. G. Bethea, U. S. N. R., of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selecting Board in Atlanta. He is a native of Albany, Ga., and a graduate of Emory University.

The entire dining room will be decorated in Navy flags and banners and model ships will be a part of the background. Mothers and fathers of Navy men will be present as well as many of the sailors who served in World War I.

Mrs. Edgar W. Bowers Succumbs at Age of 65

Mrs. Edgar W. (Roetta) Bowers, 65, of 886 Dunning street, S. E., died Saturday night at a private hospital.

She is survived by two sons, W. J. White and J. E. Harvey. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Harry G. Poole. The Rev. H. C. Hale will officiate and burial will be in Crest Lawn cemetery.

Madeleine Carroll Quits Film Career For Duration As Husband Joins Marines

By SHEILAH GRAHAM.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—"I'm the proudest woman in the world because on Monday my husband will be a buck private in the Marines."

The proud wife is beautiful, blond Madeleine Carroll. The newest recruit to Uncle Sam's fighting forces is handsome Stirling Hayden, who has abandoned his job as master of a merchant vessel because—his wife tells me—"he wanted something more dangerous for his share in the war effort, and the Marines get the toughest of all the fighting assignments."

Miss Carroll's own share in the war effort includes the shelving of her film career—"for the duration," and a full-time job, from nine in the morning until five in the afternoon at a desk on the twentieth floor with the United Seamen's Service at 39 Broadway. She works in a large room with approximately 25 other girls. The latter, after two days of feverish excitement, are now accepting the presence of a famous movie star in their midst with a refreshing (for Miss Carroll) nonchalance.

"It's almost a year since my last picture ('My Favorite Blonde')," says Miss Carroll. "Like Stirling, I want to participate to the best of my ability in the winning of this war. We both feel that glamor has no place during this difficult period. It was impossible for either of us to remain in Hollywood. Above all things, Stirling wants the respect of himself and his fellow men. He's such a 'real person' and Madeleine sighed blissfully.

Mr. Hayden, in this, his last week of civilian life has joined his wife and his mother in the latter's small house in Connecticut, where, according to Madeleine, she has solved the servant problem—"by not having any. Stirling's mother and I do the housework and cooking. Sunday is my 'wash' day, and you'd laugh to see me bending over the tub scrubbing away at my clothes."

The present dearest wish of Madeleine's heart is that motherhood will crown her union with Hayden. Her previous marriage with Captain Phillip Astley was childless, but that fact is not destroying current hope.

"I went to my doctor yesterday," she tells me, "and he says there is no reason why I should not have children. But with Stirling leaving me on Monday, for who knows how long, our chance for parenthood is diminished. But all the same I'm just praying that the next time we meet he will be able to greet our son or daughter. I can't tell you how happy I'd be to have a baby!"

Meanwhile, Madeleine is occupied with her strenuous duties for the men of the merchant service. She is a member of the board of trustees of the United Seamen's Service and director of entertainment.

Madeleine's private post-war plans depend entirely on those of her husband. Mr. Hayden is the type of male who believes in ruling his own life. But it is almost certain that with the advent of peace, the couple will return to Hollywood and resume their respective film careers.

Hayden had two films to his credit—"Virginia" and "Bahama Passage" (leading lady in both cases, the lady he married), after which he amazed the film colony by walking out on one of the most promising careers in Hollywood. Madeleine is still nominally under contract to Paramount.

Separate Vacations Suggested

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

I have been married for nearly three years and I love my husband and he loves me. He is very good to me and to our little girl. But now my husband and I have gotten to the place where we quarrel all the time. What I thought was if I could go somewhere for a while things would be better, but he will not hear of it. He says he does not know what he would do without me. But I know that this quarrelling has got to stop. I have never been away from him since we married. Neither of us mean to have these little quarrels, but we just do not seem to be able to help it. Do you think he will be glad to see me return if I go away or will he be mad? He has always said if I left for me not to come back. But I do not believe he meant it.

WORRIED.

Separation is one of the best things in the world for situations such as yours. You and your husband need a separation from each other to make you appreciate each other more. Being together day in and day out for three years may be your idea of bliss and happiness, but it nevertheless tends to promote a tension between two people with the result that nerves are on edge and quarrels start over the slightest disagreement. These small fuses lead to large ones and more serious ones which can result in a great deal of unhappiness for all concerned. I am all in favor of a vacation for you. Isn't there someone whom you could visit? Without making your plans for a visit too obvious, I think you can well plan on a trip which would solve your problem. By all means do not let him know that you wish to leave him. Do not let him think that a vacation would help matters. You will have to make him think that you need a trip for your own good.

Unruly locks can be tamed by spraying a fine mist of a fragrant hair-setting lotion over them, Irene Manning, starring in "Yankee Doodle Dandy," which opens in Atlanta this week, is seen applying this lotion to her blond hair.

New Lotion to Tame Unruly Hair

By Winifred Ware.

Those who have dry, unruly hair will love a lotion I have discovered. It is oily, but not excessively so, and has a delightful fragrance which clings long after you have forgotten you have applied it for the very practical purpose of keeping the hair neatly arranged. The bottle now setting on my desk has an atomizer top, but I doubt whether you'll be able to find many with such tops, because atomizers are made of both rubber and metal—strictly prior materials. Perhaps you have an atomizer which you can divert to this purpose, and if so, apply this hair lotion with it, because you get a light spray evenly distributed, which is just what you want and need for best results.

Dry, brittle hair can be kept soft and pretty by applying this lotion in whatever amount is needed and as often as you wish. It takes the place of the heavier bristling for hair arrangements. The fragrance of this one is something unusual; it's difficult to describe but the name of it is "Swing" and the bottle's gold label carries two blithe "sixteenth" notes.

You have got to sell him on the idea that a trip would make you happy and since he loves you so much, he should want to cater to your whims. Do not let discussion of a trip be related in any way to the fact that it might be better for your marital situation. Leave this out and work up to the separation as though it was something he wants you to do and which you are in perfect accord.

It is just a little trick you will have to work in order to save the situation at your home which is well on its way to a continuous and repeated period of quarrels. I think the reason these quarrels occur is because there has been no break in your life together. It has been a hum-drum existence with no break to lend variety. I think one of the best things husbands and wives can do is to take vacations from each other from time to time. When they are united their appreciation of one another is much deeper.

For the time being, until you can make some definite plan for your trip, don't think it would be a wise idea if you tried to figure out the situation at your home and see what leads up to these little quarrels? Is there something which you could do, which would remedy the situation? Analyze yourself and see if there is anything that you do which causes the quarrels. If so, then stop and change your attitude. The same may be applied to him with good results.

Our ambassador, Mr. Winant, met me at the airport and on the train trip sketched for me the things which had been planned for the next few days. I shall, of course, do the more formal things that must be done, first. The King and Queen met me at the station, together with a number of officials, both British and American. We were then whisked away from the station very quickly.

This lotion is made by one of the most outstanding creators of hair preparations, which is a recommendation in itself, and the little bottle which contains about 2 ounces sells for around $1 without the attachable atomizer. In checking the stores around town I found one that had bottles with atomizers, and these were priced at $1.75.

If you want to know the maker and the places where this lotion may be bought phone Winifred Ware, Walnut 5585, or write in care of The Constitution, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

MY DAY: A Trans-Atlantic Flight Incognito

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

LONDON, England, Friday.—The past few days have been so filled with a variety of experiences that it is difficult to tell you about them. In the first place, I should explain that I find myself on a trip to England because, a short time ago, Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, realized that we in the United States were just beginning to go through some of the experiences which the British people have undergone during the past several years. Her Majesty felt that it might be valuable for me to see with my own eyes the work of the women in Great Britain, and so she wrote and asked whether I would care to come here.

I was assured that I would be given full freedom to see everything in the way I felt. There was some delay in my departure. The trip, across what once this would also give me an opportunity to see the work which the women are doing in Great Britain, may also be of use not only to our women at home, but also to the children. Since it is family life which changes when women go to work, children have a sense of the sacrifice which is made, and their interests deserve consideration.

Now you have the background and the reason for this visit. There was some delay in my departure. The trip, across what has now become a very small pond indeed, was as comfortable and as delightful as possible.

No one knew I was actually arriving, in spite of newspaper rumors. Since Miss Thompson and I traveled under very unimaginative names and our bags looked like everyone else's, there was no easy method of identifying us. But, as I stepped out of the plane, I heard someone say, "Why, there is Mrs. Roosevelt!"

The countryside looks as green and as calm as ever, but every now and then in the city you come upon a heap of ruins and someone casually says, "A bomb fell there."

Our ambassador, Mr. Winant, met me at the airport and on the train trip sketched for me the things which had been planned for the next few days. I shall, of course, do the more formal things that must be done, first. The King and Queen met me at the station, together with a number of officials, both British and American. We were then whisked away from the station very quickly.

The entire day is suited to unimportant affairs. Your energy and vitality will be abundant. Because of feelings of intensity, which may not be well directed, you should guard against unexpected situations or developments and do not undertake radical moves.

Protective Foods For the Reducer

By Ida Jean Kain.

Excess calories go to waist and hips. That is plain to be seen. But where do these extra calories come from? Could it be that you get them from work, spinach and whole wheat bread? No, indeed! You get them from doughnuts, cake and jelly, the second and third hot buttered rolls, the succulent fat of the meat, and gravy. Those are the foods you overeat—and they are high in calories.

Don't blame the protective foods; you probably don't get enough of them. It's what you get on top of the essentials that piles on the fat. The bright scheme of having a bell ring as soon as you have had enough calories wouldn't work so well unless you ate your protective foods first. Otherwise, you would wind up with hidden hunger.

But we'll say you would eat your protective foods first—milk, eggs, lean meat, a green leafy vegetable, a yellow vegetable, fresh fruits, butter, and whole grain or enriched bread. After that you could eat as you pleased until you had taken enough calories to cover your energy requirements.

You have hunger pains to tell you when to eat. But the habit of overeating has worn out the signal that tells you when you have had enough. When you sit right there at the table and keep eating until you get that nice, full feeling, you usually find out later that you are uncomfortably full and have to loosen your waistband.

You may easily get from 300 to 500 calories too many at a good meal because you over-estimate your requirements. If you are moderately active, you use 2,500 calories a day; a moderately active man can use approximately 3,000. But in doing sedentary work you only use 2,100 calories, and a man in the same type of work uses 2,500 calories.

Proof that you have been getting too many calories is in excess fat. Each pound represents over 4,000 calories you ate and did not use in energy. To burn those and lose weight, take from 500 to 1,000 fewer calories than you eat in a day—and do your subtracting in the form of the non-protective fats, sugars and starches.

If you want menus already planned, send for the "Protective Reducing Diet." Please enclose three-cent stamped return envelope, and address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Purely Personal Chatter About Atlanta Debutantes

Editor's Note: This is the seventh of a series of sketches giving intimate glimpses into the lives of Atlanta debutantes. Banning all social functions in their honor, this season's buds have voted to concentrate on war and defense work, their efforts along this line to be revealed in this series.

By SALLY FORTH.

GLAMOROUS and stately Sarah Cates left an excellent defense record behind her when she departed from Atlanta to resume her studies at Oglethorpe Junior College in Rydal, Pa. She engaged seriously in Red Cross activities all during her vacation period, and put in lots of hours at the USO every week. Sarah went to Lawson General hospital once a week, to help amuse those sailors and soldiers convalescing within the portals of the United States hospital.

Sarah's name is listed on the roster of the 1942-43 Debutante Club, and she returns to Atlanta to make her bow with her sister-debs at a party given at the Piedmont Driving Club at Christmas-time. Those well-known Atlantans, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cates, who are Sarah's popular parents, will join her in New York city for the Thanksgiving holidays, and they expect to have a royal time together.

Brunet and attractive Sarah is the namesake of her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. Philip Shute, of West Point, and the junior Alvin Cates is her only brother. She likes to wear the gorgeous camellias which are grown as a hobby by her uncle, Philip Shute, on the Peachtree road property of Sarah's parents.

Moving pictures amuse her immensely, but classical music is nearest and dearest to her heart. Sarah always purchases the symphony orchestra records, and listens to every radio program featuring the music played by these orchestras. This charming member of the debutante coterie desires to be a costume designer, and expects to study at some New York art school after she finishes her senior year at Oglethorpe college. Sarah prefers bright colors when she selects her dresses and she wears red and green clothes with equal becoming-ness. Brown matches her hair and her expressive eyes, but Sarah's friends think she presents her most stunning appearance when she is arrayed in a black dress and a big black hat. Fluffy evening costumes are her preference because these dresses are perfectly styled for her slender figure and reed-like height.

Sarah has a decided leaning toward art, and posed for members of the art classes at the High Museum while on her vacation. Badminton and swimming are her favorite sports, but she is also keeping abreast with her aquatic sport by practicing daily in the indoor pool at college. Her only pet is the big black cat named "Willie," which strays into the Cates home on Peachtree road and won his place in Sarah's affections.

When Sarah returns for the Yuletide holidays she will have as her guest that lovely Floridian, Helen Gandy, of St. Petersburg, who frequently visits her, and has made many friends here. Sarah was graduated from Washington Seminary, and belongs to the Phi Pi sorority and Glee's Circle for Tallulah Falls school.

GLIMPSED at the reception following the wedding of Sallie Cobb Johnson and Lieutenant (j. g.) Thomas J. Hicks: Mrs. Eugene Haynes accenting her beauty in a gown of seafoam crepe worn with a shawl and spray of orchids. . . Anne Harris looking attractive in a mid-night blue gown brightened by a Kelly green jacket. . . Mrs. William K. Jenkins wearing Victory red crepe with a cluster of white orchids on her shoulder. . . Helen McDuffie chatting with Lillian Roberts, Isabel Vretman and the newly-wedded Charles Betheas. . . Mrs. Betha, the former Caroline Yundt, offsetting her radiant beauty in a white crepe gown, the jacket of which was embroidered in gold. . . Mrs. Alfred I. Barton, of New York, the hostess, enjoying the fun, and wearing parma violet crepe encrusted with sequins, and worn with orchids. . . Mrs. Carl Vretman looking stunning in a cinnamon crepe gown worn with topaz beads and an ermine jacket. . . Virginia Dulaney and Larue Mizell sipping a glass of champagne. . . Graham Jackson arriving a bit late with the excuse that he HAD to hear Paul Robeson sing, and serenading the wedding party at the bride's table in a private dining room. . . Mimi Capdevielle catching the bride's bouquet tossed by the bride from the ballroom balcony. . . The newly-wedded Avritt Browns sipping champagne and chatting with Mrs. Ryburn Clay. . . Mrs. W. E. Campbell Jr. and Mrs. Clarence Knowles looking smart and attractive and being served at the buffet table. . . Mrs. Howard Harmon chatting about her recent trip to New York. . . C. C. Proctor and Margaret Winship cutting the wedding cake. . . Keeler Newton, of Forsyth, looking attractive in her new pompadour hair dress.

Temple Sisterhood Board To Meet

The board meeting of the Temple Sisterhood will be held Monday, November 2, at 10:30 o'clock, at Temple House, on Peachtree road. At 11:30, Mrs. David Marx will preside over the monthly meeting.

The guest speaker will be Dr. S. Harvey Sklar, formerly of New York city. His subject, "Palestine and the Near East, Its Peoples and Customs," will be of interest at this time. Dr. Sklar lived several years in Beirut, Lebanon, and made frequent trips to Palestine. The talk will be illustrated by photographs made by the speaker during his stay abroad.

Luncheon will be served at the close of the meeting, and members are urged to phone promptly for reservations to Mrs. A. Marcus, VE. 5358, or Mrs. Louis Rouglin, HE. 1687.

The Sisterhood's Red Cross sewing group, which meets at the temple every Tuesday under the leadership of Mrs. Louis Arolin, is open to anyone living in that vicinity. Luncheon is served at a nominal cost to those wishing to remain throughout the day.

Lutheran Women Meet in Savannah

Temple Sisterhood Board To Meet

The board meeting of the Temple Sisterhood will be held Monday, November 2, at 10:30 o'clock, at Temple House, on Peachtree road. At 11:30, Mrs. David Marx will preside over the monthly meeting.

The guest speaker will be Dr. S. Harvey Sklar, formerly of New York city. His subject, "Palestine and the Near East, Its Peoples and Customs," will be of interest at this time. Dr. Sklar lived several years in Beirut, Lebanon, and made frequent trips to Palestine. The talk will be illustrated by photographs made by the speaker during his stay abroad.

Luncheon will be served at the close of the meeting, and members are urged to phone promptly for reservations to Mrs. A. Marcus, VE. 5358, or Mrs. Louis Rouglin, HE. 1687.

The Sisterhood's Red Cross sewing group, which meets at the temple every

All in the Game

By JACK TROY

Navy's Defense Again Against a Georgia Tech team that has an established reputation as passers and masters of the razzle dazzle Navy's Midshipmen played a defense that still leaves room for speculation.

Navy played a tight six-man line and rushed backers-up through the holes. Dave Barksdale, Middle quarterback and line backer, made a terrific number of tackles.

Apparently the Navy team was determined that Tech wouldn't run over them. How they figured to stop the passing using such tactics is not very clear on the other hand.

Most spectacular pass play of the day was not included in the offensive plays of either team.

It was Gordon Studer's pass to Tech's Clint Castleberry who may run 95 yards again sometime but never will do a fancier job of it than he did Saturday.

One more block and Castleberry would have scampered 52 yards from Tech's eight and almost got away for the end 92 yards near the end of the game. As it was he ran full distance.

Versatile Castleberry gained 55 yards on a clever pass he caught from Pat McHugh in the third period. Pat faked a kick and rifled the ball to speeding Clint, who went all the way to Navy's 30-yard line.

Tech let Navy go ahead and play that tough six-man line and shoot the line backers through to make tackles. They were willing to sacrifice gains on the ground for touchdowns via the air.

Unrehearsed Play The Jackets scored their final touchdown of the game on a play that hadn't been used since Eddie Prokop and Jack Rabbit Jordan were teammates on the freshman team.

The Navy safety man was covering Tech right and wherever he went. The Jackets didn't have a regular pass that would counteract this sort of thing. And then Jordan suggested on the bench that he and Prokop used to work a pass as freshmen that would possibly pay off. It simply entailed the end making a quick fake and then speeding downfield for a spot pass.

The timing was perfect. Prokop rifled the ball and Jordan stretched like an India rubber idjit and made a sensational catch at the goal line. It was a perfect play and completely unrehearsed.

Prokop was throwing in a manner reminiscent of the Auburn game when he threw a couple of perfectly timed touchdown passes. He was handling a wet ball that day. The field was dry at Annapolis.

Jack Rabbit Jordan, brother of Bill, is proving a sensational one-play performer. He went in there Saturday, ran back to Prokop and cooked up the touchdown play. And against Auburn he was only in there to score on a play that looked almost like a carbon copy.

Luck Is Out Tech's Luck—that is to say, Jim—does not have a knee injury, as reported, but an ankle and foot injury. It has something to do with the metatarsal arch.

Luck, Coach Alexander fears, will not be available for possibly three weeks. His loss is damaging. Luck's kicking, pass-catching and running have been important to the Jackets this season.

No one on the team can fake a kick and run so well as Luck. Or fake a kick and hand it off as a mate comes speeding by on a variation of the old Statue of Liberty play.

His loss, coming before the important Duke game, is unfortunate. If X-ray examinations are favorable, he may be ready for the Georgia game. It is a certainty, Trainer Bond declares, that he will miss the next three games.

Stout Defense Don't sell the defensive ability of the Georgia Tech team short. The Jackets are one of the really tough teams to score on... when the chips are down.

For instance, when Navy moved down in the eight-yard line late in the game, Castleberry was sent in for pass defense. He promptly knocked a pass down. Tech took the ball over on downs.

Castleberry's offensive worth, inestimable as it is, is not exceeded greatly by his skill on defense. He is a deadly, hard-hitting tackler. His speed and decision give him a real edge.

Tech's line, fast and durable, will take care of itself in any company.

Reception Ted Husing visited Tech's dressing room after the game. The boys gave him a big hand and then razzed him slightly.

"Amazing and confusing Husing," they chorused. "Husing laughed and explained that he meant no offense when he made reference to the likelihood of another Tech-Notre Dame meeting being a different story.

He told the boys he thought they had a great team. And so that ended a slight Tech-Husing feud.

Russell Cats Will Test Unbeaten Griffin Friday

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

The Boys High-Tech High game scheduled for Friday night at Grant Field, always the standout prep tilt of the season here, has somewhat obscured several other fine frays which merit high billing this week.

Forty miles down the road in Griffin one of the biggest games of the season is in prospect for Friday night. Coach R. L. Bowen will take his unbeaten Russell Wildcats there to play the sensational Griffin High club, which has scored an average of 54 points a game against five opponents this year.

The Griffin entry has trampled Athens (53-0), LaGrange (26-0), Cordele (69-0), Marietta (59-0) and Elberton (62-6) in games to date, while the Wildcats, on the road to their second straight N. G. I. C. crown, have tallied an average of 28 points per contest in drubbing Hapeville, LaGrange, Decatur, Richardson and North Fulton, but the 'Cats have yielded 24 points. The only comparative basis on which to rate the teams is in their records against LaGrange, 26 to 0, and the Wildcats scored, 38 to 20.

In one of the top N. G. I. C. games of the year here, Decatur will journey to West Fulton for a Friday afternoon tilt. Both teams have potent offensive units and both have been improving steadily.

The game stacks up as a brilliant scoring duel with the Owls' potent backfield crew pitted against Allen Shelton, the Bulldogs' Dead-Eye-Dick passer.

Coach Lawrence Whalen's Marist team, fresh from a 20-0 victory at the State University School, from Montgomery, is slated to invade Dykes' Field, the Buckhead sanctum of the North Fulton Bulldogs, for a Friday noon clash which by all advance figures should be a high-scoring affair.

Commercial and Richardson, both having open dates this week, have decided to battle one another the same night at the Russell High field in East Point. These two down-trodden brethren should be rather well matched.

Bulldogs Look To Tough Test With Alabama

Butts Warns Squad Must Improve or Suffer First Lacing.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Georgia's claim to national football fame will be at stake when the Bulldogs run up against Alabama at Grant Field Saturday in the nation's outstanding contest.

The undefeated Bulldogs are ready to meet their greatest test of the season, but Coach Wiley Butts warned them on the train yesterday that they had better look 100 per cent better against the Red Elephants than they did in defeating Cincinnati Saturday.

Georgia, evidently suffering a slight letdown after its Ole Miss and Tulane victories, played uninspired ball to whip the Bearcats. Then, too, the boys probably had one eye on Alabama.

There are no serious injuries on the team and all should be ready to play against Bama. Jerry Nunally has a cut leg, but it shouldn't slow him down much. Walter Maguire, the blocking back, didn't play against Cincinnati because of a bad foot.

Lamar Davis scored two more touchdowns on passes and came within a step of tying his own record. The speedy Brunswick boy set the record last year when he flagged eight six-point tosses.

Already this season he has caught seven and hopes to break the mark against Alabama. Frank Sinkwich scored three more touchdowns, thus adding to his Southeastern Conference leadership.

With the exception of great play by Sinkwich and Davis, Georgia probably had one of its worst Saturdays against the Bearcats. Tackling and rushing the passer were noticeably better, however.

Dodgers have to bounce back and turn in a good job against the Tide.

Nationally famous sports writers and radio men are coming to Atlanta for the contest. Wiley Butts is going on the air with Grantland Rice on Friday night before the game. The team spent yesterday on a day coach returning from their sixth victory of the season.

Bears Crush Eagles, 45-14; Packers Win

Dodgers Smash Giants as Redskins Shut Out Steelers, 14-0.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Chicago Bears today gave their coach, George Halas, a rousing sendoff to his new job as lieutenant commander in the Navy by crushing the Philadelphia Eagles, 45 to 14, to remain unbeaten through 16 games of the season.

The Bears today won their 12th National Football League game.

PACKERS 28, LIONS 7. DETROIT, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The fabulous Don Hutson, running ahead of his all-time record scoring pace of last season, was held without a touchdown today for the first time this year, but the Green Bay Packers nevertheless whipped the Detroit Lions, 28 to 7, in a National Football League game before 19,087 spectators.

Andy Uram returned a kickoff 98 yards for one Packers touchdown.

DODGERS 17, GIANTS 7. BROOKLYN, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Giants' makeshift backfield could not generate enough power today and the Brooklyn professional Dodgers bowled over the old New York rivals, 17 to 7, in a National Football League game at Ebbets Field.

REDSKINS 14; STEELERS 0. PITTSBURGH, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Washington Redskins, striking through the air for one touchdown and blocking a punt for another, clung to the eastern division lead of the National Football League today by turning back the Pittsburgh Steelers, 14 to 0.

RAMS 7, CARDINALS 3. CLEVELAND, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Cleveland Rams withstood a flurry of fourth-quarter drives from Bud Schwenk and made two magnificent goal line stands today for a 7-to-3 National Football League triumph over the Chicago Cardinals before 7,896 Cleveland Stadium spectators.

St. Mary's Ends Loyola's Streak

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(AP)—St. Mary's pushed Loyola of Los Angeles out of the select circle of undefeated football teams today by scoring a well-earned 13-to-0 victory before a crowd of 20,000 at Gilmore Field.

Loyola held a slight edge through the first half, but the Gaels began to crack down on the Lions' left tackle spot in the third quarter, and with Fullback Tony Compagno leading the charge, pounded 33 yards to a touchdown.

Ed "Strangler" Lewis, six times heavyweight champion of the world and regarded by many critics as the greatest wrestler of all time, will meet the undefeated Terror at the city auditorium Friday night.

Lewis' appearance here will be his first other than that of referee in nearly 10 years. The Strangler quit the mat game for a year or so but amazed observers by coming back and showing the same power and skill which made him the No. 1 wrestler of the world for the better part of 20 years.

Today, at an age when most men have retired even from business life and proudly attend sporting events in which their sons and grandsons take part, the Old

Army Reveals 7 Airmen With Rickenbacker

Crew of Six, Passenger on Plane With World War I Ace.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Seven Army airmen are missing with Captain Eddie Rickenbacker on his ill-fated Pacific flight, the War Department disclosed today in an announcement which merely listed their names and had no results to report from the widespread search.

Six apparently comprised the crew of the plane. The seventh was a passenger, Colonel Hans Adamson of the Air Corps, until recently on duty at War Department headquarters here.

Some hope was retained that Rickenbacker and his companions still were afloat on life rafts which the plane carried. Other airmen have been picked up from similar rafts after weeks afloat.

Aside from Adamson, 52, whose home is in Washington, D. C., those missing included:

Captain William T. Cherry Jr.,

'Bugs' Baer Says:

Once again I have been accused of less majesty for writing about King George's bath. It is even less water.

If the King can wash behind the ears in six inches of water he must be an acrobat. That I must see.

The story came out of London uncensored. The population of London is one to a tub. If the dry season continues Londoners will reverse a vacuum cleaner and use it for a shower bath.

Using the ermine and strawberry leaf system on Earl will bathe in four inches of water and a Duke in two. A Baron will do without.

Six inches of water indicates a trend toward efficiency. There will be no fumbling for the soap.

Sergeant Alexander T. Kaczmarzyk, 19, 426 Elm street, Torrington, Conn.
Private John F. Bartek, 23, Freehold, N. J.
The identification of Cherry suggested that the missing plane was a transport type craft, possibly an airliner converted to military use.

Big Cutters Resumed In Cane Sugar Fields

CLEWISTON, Fla., Oct. 25.—(AP)

Because of the labor shortage, six huge combination cutters and harvesters will be pressed into service when the United States Sugar Corporation begins to harvest its sugar cane tomorrow. The big machines were formerly side-tracked to provide employment for as many men as possible.

Thunder of Big Battle Heard In Alexandria

Sounds of Clash Carrying to City 80 Miles Across Desert.

By HARRY CROCKETT.
ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 24.—(Delayed)—(P)—The thunder of a United Nations artillery barrage and the crash of exploding bombs was heard in Alexandria tonight as Allied forces started their big smash at Axis positions 80 miles to the west.

The big guns produced a steady rumble, punctuated often by the "whump" of heavy bombs which fliers were depositing all along the front from El Alamein to the Qattara depression.

The sounds of the furious battle could be heard clearly above the noises of the blacked-out but gay city. From a hotel balcony the dim figures of pedestrians could be distinguished in the streets, and in the night clubs the merriment was unabated.

Thuds and Rumbles.

It was impossible to tell from precisely what quarter these great thuds and rumbles came. The main front is nearly due west, but there seemed to be more activity to the northwest. In that direction vivid red and orange flashes stabbed through black clouds, and as lights increased the fury of sound grew.

This long-expected attack by the United Nations forces was betrayed to Naval correspondents here by the sudden disappearance of American airmen and British soldiers, normally present in large numbers in this city of lively night spots and hotels.

American men and materials are playing a large part in the new assault. As British, Colonial and Dominion land forces struck, American-made motor torpedo boats sped westward through the Mediterranean in bright moonlight and shelled Axis installations on the coast in the Matruh area. This action along the shore doubtless diverted a portion of the enemy forces at the moment the Allied land operations started to the south.

American Fliers.

American fliers were battering at Axis airdromes and enemy communications. Among them were fighter pilots of the "Uncle Bud Fighting Cock" and the "Black Scorpion" squadrons who flew across the top of Africa to get here. They took off from a carrier on the West African coast. The American motor boats which figured in the first phase of the attack were manned entirely by British seamen.

Among troops participating in land operations were highly trained Greek units.

Protestant Clergymen

Ask for Second Front

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(P)—Kenneth Leslie, editor of the Protestant Magazine, said today that a petition calling for a second front to carry the war "into the German hub of the Axis" through Spain and Vichy France had been signed by 911 Protestant clergymen and presidents of colleges with Protestant affiliations.

Rites Set Today For H. R. Fridell

Final rites for H. R. Fridell Sr., 76, well-known Atlanta interior decorator, who died Saturday, will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Inman Park Methodist church.

The Rev. Peter Manning will officiate and burial will be in Thurman cemetery. Members of the board of stewards will form an honorary escort. Fridell lived at 1250 Euclid avenue, N. E., and was founder of the decorating firm of Fridell Brothers, which was dissolved in 1933. He was active in Inman Park Methodist church, serving on the board of stewards. He was also a Mason and a member of Yaarab Temple of the Shrine.

Swift Roundup of Jap Aliens Made in Texas

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 25.—(P)—Virtually every alien Japanese still at liberty in the vital Houston-Galveston industrial area was arrested today in a swift and systematic roundup by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

It was the biggest roundup of Japanese anywhere in the nation outside the west coast. Hardly a community in Harris county escaped attention, although Houston got a major share of inspection. Ray J. Abbaticchio Jr., special agent in charge, said 66 places had been searched and 52 Japanese arrested, and the roundup was still in progress.

Aircraft Production Enlarged in Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—(P)—Manufacture in Canada of four of the most modern aircraft now used by the United Nations, including the powerful four-motored Lancaster bombers, now has become an outstanding feature of Canada's munitions program, it was learned today.

Production of aircraft in Canada never has been great in comparison with the output of the United Kingdom and the United States, but the program is now approaching the assembly line basis, an official said.

Danish King's Condition Takes Turn for Worse

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Oct. 25.—(P)—The serious condition of King Christian X of Denmark caused his two sons and other near relatives to remain at the hospital until early today while the Queen was there all night. A Transocean dispatch from Copenhagen reported today. The King, who was injured in a fall from his horse a week ago, took a turn for the worse last night and his condition continued to cause anxiety tonight, it was reported.

Smoke Screen at Genoa Is Wafted Out to Sea

Dakar Is Ready To Meet Attack, Darlan Boasts

Vichy Leader Points Out Naval Strength of African Post.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(P)—Admiral Jean Darlan, commander of the Vichy land, sea and air forces, declared today in an interview broadcast by the Berlin radio that Dakar is ready for any attack from sea or land and would "react promptly."

The admiral gave his interview to a French newspaperman, George Charles Verand, in Rabat, French Morocco, shortly before he called on the Sultan of Morocco, the German radio said. Darlan is returning from Dakar.

"Should a direct threat become evident on the coast of West Africa we are in a position to react promptly," he said. "The means to do so are on the spot and those who handle them know also how to use them."

"It would be very dangerous should anyone intend to attack it (Dakar)," the admiral was quoted as saying. "Dakar has once before stood the test (against the British and Fighting French in 1940). There can be no comparison between the forces stationed at Dakar now and those which enabled it to resist attack then. Anyone making such an attempt would get the surprise of his life."

'Farmers Exchange' Advocated To Swap Vital Machine Parts

Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder yesterday advocated the establishment of a "farmers' exchange" which would collect parts of machinery now out of production for distribution where needed.

"On most of our farms there are old plows and other equipment that have usable parts that can be transferred to another plow and be used again," Linder said. "It would be a fine idea if someone in each county would establish a 'farmers' exchange' where the farmers could carry old plows, and old farm equipment, dismantle them, and get the usable parts together for further use."

"Those parts that are worthless can be scrapped on the spot and go into the war effort," Linder urged farmers to use care in collecting scrap. "It is important that the available scrap from the farms be turned in to the government to be used in the war effort," he said.

YOUTH FOUND UNCONSCIOUS.

Ben Edwards, 18, of 768 Parkway drive, was found unconscious yesterday morning on a safety zone at Peachtree and Cain streets, police reported. He was admitted to Crawford W. Long Memorial hospital, where he was taken by a passing motorist. Police are investigating the possibility the youth was drugged.

Lost to the Axis!
Won from the Axis!

Here in graphic form is a birdseye view of the tremendous job the United Nations have to do.

To do it we here in the United States must fight together—work together—sacrifice together—as we have never done before.

We can't win this war by fighting among ourselves. Sectional rivalries, personal ambitions and socialistic reform schemes must all take a back seat for the duration!

Get together. America! And change this picture!
